Tomales Bay Resort Favored By Report

Delay Asked To Permit State Purchase of Land

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A controversial resort planned on Tomales Bay should be built unless the state buys the land by September, the staff of the North Central Coast Regional Conservation Commission recommended today.

Commission approval of a scaled-down version of the project came in a nine-page report debating the conflicting goals of providing public access to the coast while preserving its beauty.

The 20-acre parcel north of Marshall is owned by Herbert H. Angress. Earlier this year, he rejected a $28,000 offer by Audubon Canyon Ranch for his 20 acres, but has said he would sell at some unspecified amount.

Urgency legislation to buy the Angress and other Tomales Bay properties will be introduced as soon as the Legislature reconvenes Aug. 5. A spokesman for Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, who will introduce the measure, said it would allocate about $2 million to buy out Angress and the Millerton and Tomasini points.

The money would come from $28 million in the new budget for unspecified park purchases.

Mrs. Angress told the Independent-Journal today that the state Parks and Recreation Department last week said it was not interested in buying her husband's property.

She reported officials told her that since the resort would be open to the public, there was no need for the state to assume the cost of buying the land.

If the Sieroty legislation passed and was signed into law, of course, the department would have no choice but to buy the land.

Angress has been battling governmental agencies for almost five years to build a $2.5 million resort on his land. The regional coastal commission denied a permit for his project last October, and Angress has appealed to Marin Superior Court.

Facing loss of his land if the project is not ready to go by November, Angress has reapplied to the coast commission for another hearing.

His new application, offering to cut the height of buildings, will be heard by the commission when it meets at 7 p.m. Thursday in San Rafael City Hall. The staff's recommendation for approval, however, calls for delaying action for up to 60 days to give time for state purchase of the land.

The staff's favorable recommendation is only for half of the 60 condominium units sought by Angress. Also proposed are a restaurant, coffee shop and recreation building.

According to Angress, he already has spent more than $200,000. The costs were financed by a note on the entire 108 acres he owns, land he will forfeit if work cannot begin by November, he said.

The nine-page staff report on the new Angress application concluded that "the public benefits of the people-serving aspects of this proposal virtually equal its negative scenic and locational aspects."

The commission's executive director, Michael L. Fischer, noted that while he had recommended denial of the project last October, he also said then

Nixon Blood Clot Dangers Revealed

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon, who knowingly risked his life by traveling to the Middle East with a permanent blood clot in his leg, says he is in "good shape" and feeling no pain, his chief spokesman said today.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon's left leg still is "a little swollen" but his doctors insist there is "no longer any danger" from thrombo-phlebitis, an inflammation and clotting in the veins.

Nixon also told Ziegler that he "feels good and is catching up on his rest" since his return Wednesday night from Moscow where he held a week of summit talks with Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

According to Dr. Walter Tkach, the White House physician, Nixon was warned that there "was an outside chance the condition could take his life" when he was examined June 10 in Salzburg, Austria, a rest stop before his Middle East peace mission.

Tkach told reporters that Nixon "took a calculated risk" and "it could have killed him."

But Nixon, Tkach said, "felt he had an obligation" to make the trip to the Middle East. Tkach and his assistant, Dr. William Lukash, agree the clot now has attached itself permanently to the wall of the vein, is in a "fixed position." It therefore no longer threatens to break loose and lodge itself in the heart or lungs, which could be fatal.

Nixon no longer is receiving medication, Tkach said, but may always suffer some swelling in the leg.

When his ailment was discovered, Nixon insisted it be kept a secret. Only when he was seen limping and CBS broke the story did the White House reveal the President had suffered phlebitis. A spokesman said at the time that "the situation had resolved itself."

The White House spokesman did not, at that time, call it "thrombo-phlebitis" which would indicate clotting.

Since his arrival at Key Biscayne, Nixon has been taking it easy. He went swimming twice on the Fourth of July, and also took a one-hour boat ride with his close friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Ziegler also reported that Nixon called his daughter Julie Eisenhower in Washington, to wish her "happy birthday." Julie was 26 today and is celebrating with her husband, David Eisenhower, who is planning to continue his law studies at George Washington University during the summer.

The Nixons were expected to return to Washington Sunday evening for about five days before going to San Clemente, where they may remain until near the end of July.

Ziegler said the President feels he is now "in good condition. His leg is not bothering him, but it's a little swollen," said Ziegler.

Dr. Tkach said it will be a permanent condition with Nixon, who also suffered an attack of phlebitis 10 years ago while on a trip to Japan.

New Utility District To Be Studied

An advisory committee to explore the possibility of forming a municipal utility district and study possible consolidation of water and sanitary districts has been approved by the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

Lari I. Sheehan, executive director of the commission, said its unanimous decision on Wednesday to set up the study committee received a generally favorable response from representatives of the water and sanitary districts.

Only five districts in the eastern portion of the county were not represented at the meeting, she said. Those include the San Rafael Sanitation District, the Tamalpais Community Services District and the Corte Madera, Almonte and Alto Sanitary districts.

The new study committee will be composed of 17 representatives from water and sanitary district boards, plus eight "public members.

The water and sanitary districts have been asked to appoint their representatives by July 15 so the committee's first meeting can be held July 24.

Six of the eight "public members were appointed Wednesday and are from the ad hoc committee which proposed the

Federal Aide Happy With Jobless Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's rate of unemployment held steady at 5.2 per cent in June — the same as May — but another 400,000 Americans found employment, the government said.

The jobless rate was 5.0 per cent in April and has been steadily around that level since January.

Many private forecasters had predicted the energy crisis, slowing industry, would push the unemployment rate up to 8 to 10 per cent. The administration has been more optimistic, suggesting the rate would increase slowly and peak somewhere short of 6 per cent by the end of 1974.

Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said today that the continuation of the

Inverness And Ross Festivals Top Weekend Events Calendar

The first concerts of the Inverness Musical Festival and the "Good Old Days" festival at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross share top billing among weekend activities in Marin and Southern Sonoma.

The "Good Old Days" festival, which will run tomorrow and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., will revive one Marin tradition unhonored in recent years — the selection of a Miss Marin.

The beauty pageant will begin at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the art and garden center. The winner will go on to compete in the Miss California contest, a stepping-stone to the Miss Universe crown.

Festival entertainment will include performances by the Prince Charles Junior Pipe Band, the Natural Gas Dixieland Band and the Bayou Boogie Band.

There also will be puppet shows, a performance by the Ross Valley Players of "Slightly Coward" and an assortment of booths featuring works by local craftsmen and artists.

For those who want to see the Inverness Music Festival in its original setting, tonight's opening concert will be at St. Columba's Church in Inverness. Only one more concert in the 18-performance series will be held in the church.

Today's concert at 8 p.m. features harpist Marcella Decray performing works by Faure, Dussek, Handel, Prokofieff, and others.

The festival's second concert will be tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow. Music by Charles Ives will be performed by Naomi Sparrow, Nathan Rubin, Sally Kell and John Duykers.

The third concert in the series will be the competition for the festival's young musicians' awards, Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The three finalists performing at the concert are trombonist Joe Alessi and cellist Jed Barahal, both of San Rafael, and pianist Jeff Kahane of Mill Valley.

The winner will receive a $600 prize donated by the Independent Journal, and the other two finalists will receive $200 awards donated by Andre Paris and Harry Connick.

SMOG CZARS FROWNING ON FILTHY LUCRE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dirty money is polluting the air.

The Bay Area Pollution Control District disclosed that it has cited the Federal Reserve Bank four times because the smoke from its incinerator was fouling the air.

Bank officials said they were trying to find another incinerator which does not emit pollutants but this was a tough job.

It takes a special burner, they said, to destroy paper money.

Ehrlichman Prosecution Rests Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John D. Ehrlichman first told a grand jury he did not know about a psychological profile of Daniel Ellsberg before the break-in at the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist, then changed his testimony four months later, a federal court was told today.

With the reading of his two previously secret grand jury appearances on May 14 and Sept. 13, 1973, the prosecution rested its case against Ehrlichman and three convicted Watergate burglars who are accused of conspiracy in the 1971 burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Lewis J. Fielding.

The defense has said it needs the testimony of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in the case, but Kissinger asked today that the subpoena against him be quashed because he knew nothing of the burglary and is holding "crucial meetings" in Europe with NATO officials.

Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said Kissinger should "hold himself in readiness" and it was indicated the judge would wait for further testimony before making a ruling.

Ehrlichman also is charged with lying to the grand jury. On May 14, two weeks after he resigned as President Nixon's chief domestic adviser, he told a Watergate grand jury: "I learned after the break-in that they were looking for informa-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Lions Laud Danny Kaye's Work

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Comedian Danny Kaye has received the special Humanitarian Award from the Lions International at its 57th annual convention here.

Kaye

Kaye's appearance before the group last night reflected both sides of his personality as he first got the delegates laughing and then seriously told them of his concern for the world's starving children.

He noted that UNICEF recently determined that "a half billion of the world's children will slowly go from their present malnutrition to outright starvation."

He paused, then three times repeated very slowly: "A half billion children."

He said: "Children die quietly, because they have no political force and no voice to present before the world."

Fast Ends

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dissident physicist Andrei D. Sakharov, who went on a hunger strike during President Nixon's summit visit to the Soviet Union, ended his fast today on the advice of his doctor.

Sakharov, who began the fast to draw Nixon's attention to the plight of political prisoners in the Soviet Union, said his six-day hunger strike came to an end at midnight yesterday.

The 53-year-old scientist told Western newsmen he lost 20 pounds and was suffering from low blood pressure as well as giddiness. He said his doctor ordered him to abandon the fast.

Jackson In Peking

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese Vice-Premier Teng Hsiao-ping met in Peking yesterday with U.S. Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and his wife and members of his party, the New China News Agency reported.

The agency said Teng had a frank conversation with Jackson, who is chairman of the Senate committee on interior and insular affairs.

Plea For Jews

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark yesterday deplored the conditions of 4,500 Jews living in Syria, saying they are reminiscent of the first days of Nazi Germany.

Clark a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Senator in New York, spoke after attending a one-day Paris meeting of the International Conference for the Deliverance of Jews in the Middle East.

Clark said the homes of Syrian Jews are marked "Jew," similar to the days of the Nazi rise. They get very little food and their work is confined to a little weaving, he said.

Turkish Appeal

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — The chairman of the Turkish Bar Association has petitioned parliament to order the release of two American women convicted of narcotics trafficking, parliament sources said today.

The two women, Joann McDaniel, 30, Salem, Ore., and Katherine Zenz, 29, Lancaster, Wis., were arrested in 1972 along with another U.S. citizen, Robert Hubbard, 23, San Antonio, Tex., as they entered Turkey from Syria in a minibus.

Turkish customs officials charged they found 230 pounds of hashish in the vehicle.

The three Americans initially were sentenced to life imprisonment but a recent general amnesty law cut the sentences to 16 years.

Editor Kidnapped

BEIRUT (UPI) — Lebanon has launched a huge manhunt for Michel Abu Jawdeh, editor of the influential An Nahar newspaper, who was kidnapped from a Beirut street, police sources said today.

Thousands of demonstrators blocked roads and burned tires near Beirut today to protest the abduction. Witnesses estimated their number of protesters at 20,000.

Viet Battle

SAIGON (UPI) —Government soldiers killed 108 Communist troops while losing only two men in a running two-day battle 345 miles north of Saigon, military spokesmen said today.

Fighting broke out just before noon yesterday near Tien Phuoc district capital, just off Highway 1, the country's major north-south highway.

Church Ballot

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Delegates to the annual convention of the Lutheran Church of America rejected a reform-minded Pennsylvania minister yesterday and re-elected the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Marshall of New York City to another term as president.

Dr. Marshall, 55, was re-elected on a second ballot, defeating 13 other opponents, including the Rev. Dr. Wallace E. Fisher of Lancaster, Pa.

Fisher broke with tradition in April by formally announcing his candidacy for the presidency of the 3.1 million member denomination.

Fireworks

CRAUGHWELL, Ireland (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy flew to London today after concluding a brief vacation at this Galway Bay village with a Fourth of July fireworks display laid on specially for his 12-year-old son, Teddy.

Irish Tourist Board officials arranged the 15-minute fireworks show last night to mark Teddy's release earlier this week from a hospital where he had been treated for a reaction to an anticancer drug he takes.

Irish Solution?

BELFAST (UPI) — Northern Ireland's political leaders today welcomed with reservations a British government plan to let the people of the violence-torn province work out their own future.

The government called for election of a 78-man constitutional convention for Northern Ireland to work out the form of government most likely to be accepted by the community as a whole.

Severe Temblor Rocks Mongolia

BEREKELEY (UPI) — A severe earthquake jarred a remote section of the Soviet Union near the border of China and Western Mongolia yesterday, according to the University of California Seismographic station.

The station said the temblor registered 6.5 on the Richter Scale and its epicenter was southeast of Semipalatinsk, USSR. It was recorded at 12:30 p.m. PDT.

Riot Deaths Set At 12 In Bangkok

BANGKOK (UPI) — Isolated gunfire broke out today in Bangkok where two nights of riots forced the Thai government to proclaim a state of emergency and summon troops and tanks into the streets.

At least 13 people were killed and more than 100 injured in the all-night rioting Wednesday and yesterday, according to a survey of hospitals in the absence of official figures, with at least 50 people reported under arrest.

Twelve of tthe dead were civilians; the 13th was a policeman.

Some Bangkok newspapers reported the death toll as high as 22, but that figure could not be confirmed.

Authorities said two men who were helping pick up the dead and injured were wounded by gunfire near a police station in the capital's Chinatown at sundown yesterday following a day of peace and cleaning up of littered streets.

Minutes later somebody threw a firebomb nearby and paramilitary troops began appearing in the streets. Police cars roamed the area telling people to go home. Streets were cordoned off.

Prime Minister Sanya Dharmasakti called an urgent cabinet meeting on how to deal with the rioting.

Lebanese Shun Allies' Arms Offer

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Lebanon has rejected immediate offers of troops and weapons from other Arab countries to defend Palestinian refugee camps on its territory from Israeli reprisal raids, Beirut press reports said today.

The reports said the Beirut government warned Arab states at a two-day conference in Cairo that Israel was waiting for a pretext to occupy parts of southern Lebanon.

The Beirut newspaper Al Anwar said Lebanese Foreign Minister Fuad Naffah also called at the meeting for a suspension of all guerrilla activities pending the outcome of the Middle East peace conference, expected to reconvene in October.

The leader of the Syrian-backed Al Saiqa guerrilla organization, Zuheir Mohsen, who was a Palestine Liberation Organization delegate at the Cairo conference, criticized the Lebanese rejection.

"The conference of Arab defense and foreign ministers has failed because the party for whose sake the meeting was convened (Lebanon) did not want assistance," he told the newspaper Al Liwa.

Israel launched retaliatory air attacks on Palestinian refugee camps in neighboring Lebanon after Arab terrorist attacks May 15 at Maalot in western Galilee and June 13 at the northern settlement of Shamir.

The Maalot raid left 31 persons dead, most of them school children. Three women were killed in the Shamir attack. The Israeli air strikes killed more than 80 persons and wounded over 200.

Palestinian commandos killed four persons June 25 in a raid on the coastal resort of Nahariyya, but Israel has yet to retaliate.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO PERON

Grenadier guards, protected from driving rain by a plastic sheet, carry the casket of Argentine strongman Juan D. Peron to a caisson for the funeral procession. The final rites yesterday were marred by threats by militant leftwingers to take up arms again unless the "power vacuum" left by Peron's death is filled effectively by his successor, his widow. Ralph Nader Questions Beef Loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader says the Federal Reserve System is urging bankers to extend credit to hard-pressed cattle producers, and he wants to know more about it.

Nader wrote Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns asking just what concrete steps he was proposing.

Nader cited a June 13 letter by Burns to the heads of Federal Reserve Banks in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Dallas, urging that bankers make as much credit as possible available to cattle feeders who have been losing money for months.

Burns noted in the letter that banks should not be urged to make loans involving "undue risks."

He went on to say: "...it is also possible that some country banks may be reluctant to make adequate funds available locally because of the very high return that can be obtained by them on money-market instruments, including loans to city banks in the federal funds market."

Burns said normally money should be allowed to seek maximum returns. But he added bankers should realize that in the long run, they may profit most by assuring continued availability of credit in their local markets even if interest rates temporarily are lower than they can earn elsewhere.

"Taking due account of relative credit risks, the first obligation of bankers is to the credit requirements of their service area," Burns added, urging the Federal Reserve officials to remind local bankers of that obligation "whenever the opportunity presents itself."

Nader asked Burns to "spell out what concrete steps the Federal Reserve is taking to implement the suggestion (and its objectives) in your letter."

He asked Burns to comment on whether the objective of a pending bill for government guarantees on cattle loans could be met more effectively by Federal Reserve actions.

The consumer activist also asked Burns for access to files of corresendence between his office, the Federal Reserve District Banks, and member banks of the Federal Reserve System during the past year.

Finn Newsprint Export To End

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finnish paper producers will cease exporting newsprint to the United States Jan. 1, 1975, because of the high costs of production and freight charges, Thomas Nysten, director of the Finnish Paper Mills Association said today.

"Our newsprint costs in Finland plus our freight charges make our costs much higher than they are for Canadian producers and we just cannot compete at the current level," Nysten said.

He returned from a trip yesterday to the United States informing American clients of the decision.

Finland is the only European country that exports newsprint to the United States.

Patriotism, Protests Mark Annual Holiday

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The country recreated the story of its independence yesterday with celebration, protest and a share of death and injury.

A "pipe bomb exploded at a suburban Chicago high school near a fireworks display, killing one person and seriously injuring another.

In another Chicago suburb, 12 persons suffered minor eye burns during a display of fireworks. They were treated at a hospital and released.

An estimated 10,000 protestors marched through the streets of Raleigh, N.C., in a move their leaders said would "relight the fires of the 1960s civil rights movement. Gov. James E. Holshouwe Jr. put 1,000 National Guardsmen and 300 state troopers on standby alert.

In Washington, hundreds of veterans and their friends staged a peaceful march through the capital for better benefits for themselves and unconditional amnesty for those who resisted service.

The march was sponsored by the Vietnam Veterans against the War-Winter Soldier Organization. A spokesman said the group was named for "those who stuck it out at Valley Forge —and we'll stick it out.

Tornado-force winds swept across southern Maine, disrupting holiday celebrations, toppling trees, downing power lines and injuring at least 18 persons in a four-county area.

Elsewhere, celebrations appeared more red, white and blue. Drums rattled, bugles blared and fireworks exploded into awesome displays in every state.

George McCulloch, Syracuse, N.Y., observed his 69th birthday by skyjumping from a 14,000-foot altitude over the Seneca Falls, N.Y., airport. It was the 15th year for his performance.

Only about half the expected crowd of 50,000 persons participated in the Independence Day rock festival at Wentzville, Mo. Promoters called it a "financial flop.

And in Hannibal, Mo., Tom Powell, 13, won the annual Tom Sawyer National Fence-Painting contest by whitewashing three boards in 29 seconds. Arnold Bertrand, 12, New Orleans, finished second.

Less than 100 persons lost their lives on the nation's highways during the first 24 hours of this Fourth of July weekend, when traffic is usually at its heaviest, a United Press International survey shows.

The coast-to-coast fatality count indicated the National Safety Council may have been right in issuing its low estimate of 450 to 550 traffic deaths for the four-day holiday period.

Cosmonauts Begin Tests In Capsule

MOSCOW (UPI) — The two Soyuz-14 cosmonauts today began conducting experiments inside the orbiting 20-ton Salyut-3 space laboratory after completing the first successful Soviet linkup in space in more than three years.

The Tass news agency announced the docking about 32 hours after cosmonauts Col. Pavel Popovich and Lt. Col. Yuri Artyukhin, both 44, blasted off Wednesday to chase the Salyut station, launched June 25.

It was the first successful Soviet linkup since June, 1971, when three cosmonauts docked with Salyut-1 and remained aboard for 24 days, but died while returning to earth. Salyut-2 broke up in space in April, 1973, 11 days after launch.

The successful docking with Salyut-3, about one-quarter the size of the similar U.S. Skylab space station, gave a considerable boost to plans for linking up Soyuz and Apollo spacecrafts next July.

Soviet space failures over the past several years had caused concern among some U.S. space officials who questioned whether the Soviets would be ready for next year's joint flight.

There was still no indication how long the cosmonauts would remain aloft. A senior Soviet space official said Wednesday the flight would not be a prolonged one. The Skylab record is 84 days.

Popovich manually guided the Soyuz through the last 100 yards for the docking.

"It was a soft linkup," he said.

Artyukhin then entered the Salyut through a transfer hatch and switched on the lights.

"The atmosphere here is fine," he said, calling in Popovich.

Pressure, temperature and humidity are the same as on earth, suggesting the men will work without full spacesuits. Tass called the space station a "roomy cosmic accommodation."

The cosmonauts immediately went to work preparing equipment to study the earth's surface and atmospheric conditions, do medical research and test the new systems aboard Salyut itself.

Four and a half hours after both were inside, Tass said the spacecraft "moved out of the radio visibility zone" and Popovich and Artyukhin went to sleep.

Flight director Alexei Yeliseyev praised their performance. "Both are working brilliantly and efficiently implementing the flight program," he said, "and the main thing is that they are doing it with ease, enthusiastically."

Kissinger Pays Visit To Rome

ROME (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived in Rome today under a brilliant summer sun and heavy security on his tour to brief European leaders about the Moscow summit meeting.

National police with submachine guns stood on the roof of Ciampino airport as Kissinger's Boeing 707 jetliner arrived at 1:33 p.m. (4:33 a.m. PDT) from Paris.

Italian Foreign Minister Aldo Moro, U.S. Ambassador John Volpe and representative to the Vatican Henry Cabot Lodge met Kissinger at planeside.

All concerned smiled, shook hands and drove to the Quirinale palace for lunch with President Giovanni Leone. Police helicopters flew over the motorcade.

During his 22-hour stay, Kissinger will also meet with Pope Paul VI to talk about the Moscow summit and also about the status of Jerusalem, an American official said.

In Paris, Kissinger and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing conferred on the results of the Soviet-American summit and Europe's rocky relations with the United States.

Indicating that once cool Franco-American relations were warming up, Kissinger told newsmen his talk with Giscard d'Estaing was "friendly and constructive."

Before the talks, French government officials said Giscard d'Estaing would mention European alarm at the Soviet-American communique calling for a speedy conclusion to the European Security Conference and a jumbo summit meeting to sign it.

Europeans are not anxious to conclude the conference until the Soviet Union gives in to European demands for more human rights in Communist countries.

Kissinger had said he would brief the French president on the limited success of U.S.-Soviet talks on limiting nuclear arms.

PROJECT

that it should be granted a permit if it were scaled down and if a real effort to have it bought with public funds failed.

Urgency legislation is effective immediately upon signature by the governor, thus could be law by September.

Angress had modified the project somewhat in his new application, eliminating six simulated silos and lowered the height of residential structures from 32 to 24 feet. The changes also will need to be approved by the County of Marin.

Cow Thieves Must Work On Ranch

Two Marin men who killed and butchered a calf belonging to Novato rancher Ralph Bettinelli have been sentenced to repay him by doing chores around his ranch.

The two, Howard B. Dunlap III, 21, of San Rafael, and Ancil Alex Moody, 20, of Novato, pleaded guilty Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor grand theft.

Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered the men to work for Bettinelli until the rancher is satisfied the $200 value of the 18-month-old Holstein heifer has been repaid.

Smith also placed both of them on probation for one year and ordered jail terms of 15 days for Dunlap and five days for Moody.

Sheriff's investigators said the men killed and inexpertly butchered the calf on pastureland rented by Bettinelli in Hicks Valley north of Novato Boulevard in May.

But their car ran out of gas nearby, and investigators were able to trace them through a Novato garage, which was called to come to their aid.

Cambodian River Convoy Shelled By Rebel Guns

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — An 11-vessel supply convoy moving up the Mekong River from South Vietnam came under heavy fire today about 40 miles southeast of Phnom Penh but none of the ships was disabled, military sources said.

The convoy of three petroleum tankers, one cargo ship and seven barges was hit in the area of Phume Sikok, nine miles southeast of the Mekong ferry crossing town of Neak Luong, the sources said.

The Cambodian military command reported yesterday that it had re-established control over 15,000 war refugees at Neak Luong on Highway 1. Rebel troops south of the town have blocked the road.

Tennis Courts Drawings Asked

The Tamalpais Parks and Recreation Commission has asked architect Asa Hanamoto to begin drawing plans for tennis courts at Eastwood Park and a baseball field at Tamalpais Valley School.

According to John F. Walker, Tamalpais Community Services District director, the decision to go ahead with the plans was made at a joint meeting of the services district board and the parks commission Tuesday.

Walker said that an opinion survey of residents showed that they overwhelmingly favored the plans.

Councilman Has Heart Attack

SAN PEDRO (UPI) — Los Angeles City Council President John S. Gibson, 72, was reported in serious but stable condition at Peninsula Hospital today after suffering a heart attack.

Gibson, who has guided the council as its president for 12 years, was taken to the hospital from his home here early yesterday after complaining of severe stomach pains.

New Layout Accepted In Novato

Architecture, site layout and landscaping for 101 single-family homes along San Marin Drive were approved by the Novato Plan Review Committee Wednesday night.

The area previously was designated for duplexes, but the San Marin master plan was revised to accommodate single family detached homes.

The Novato Plan Review Committee also:

ELECTION — Reelected Donald A. Greenhalgh as chairman and Frank Salvisberg as vice chairman.

OFFICE BUILDING — Approved landscape plans for a professional office building at the northeast corner of San Andreas and San Marin drives.

CHURCH — Approved architectural and landscaping plans for an addition to the Seventh Day Adventist Church at 495 San Marin Drive.

They are Eugene Miller of Mill Valley, a former director of the Marin Municipal Water District; Susan Stompe of Novato, vice chairman of the League of Women voters; Theodore Wellman of Kentfield, representing the Marin Conservation League; Gloria Duncan of Fairfax, a county planning commissioner; Vera Schultz of Mill Valley, a former county supervisor who is representing the American Association of University Women and the League of Women Voters, and Barbara Violich of Kentfield, representing the Environmental Forum.

As outlined by that ad hoc committee, headed by Miller, the municipal utility district would be an "umbrella agency charged with planning such things as waste water reclamation.

The district could also serve as an agency under which water and sanitary districts in the eastern portion of the county could consolidate or dissolve if they so choose.

In setting up the study committee, the commission set an Oct. 1 deadline for a report on the feasibility of a utility district.

The study also should consider the costs or savings of such an agency as well as its enforcement powers and responsiveness to Marin residents.

Tiburon Planners Reject Ban On Communal Living

A proposal that would have outlawed communal living in Tiburon has been unanimously rejected by the city's planning commissioners.

Commissioners agreed Wednesday that it is not the city's responsibility to legislate morality, according to secretary Jean Ellingsen.

The proposal, an amendment to the city's zoning ordinance, would have made it a misdemeanor for more than two persons not related by blood, adoption or marriage to live together.

Commissioners also decided such a law would be impossible to enforce, Mrs. Ellingsen said.

In other business, Robert H. Wayne was elected commission chairman. He replaces Charles E. Bassett.

Wayne, 53, a personnel consultant, has been a member of the commission since 1971. He is a former chairman of the city's board of design review and was an unsuccessful candidate for the city council this year.

Commissioner Alvin R. Kuhn has been reappointed by the city council to a second four-year term. He was elected commission vice chairman for 1974-75.

CASE

tion for what they call a psychological profile."

But on Sept. 13, the prosecution said, Ehrlichman voluntarily told the grand jury that he had seen a discussion of the profile before the break-in. On that day, Ehrlichman said his memory was refreshed that when he prepared for testimony to a House committee overseeing CIA activities, he had initialed a report of the breakin beforehand. He changed his testimony on that second grand jury appearance to set the record straight.

Ellsberg in 1971 gave to newspapers portions of a secret government report detailing the origins and execution of the Vietnam War. The White House "Plumbers" unit, formed to stop national security leaks, tried to compile a "psychiatric profile" on Ellsberg to discover his reasons for releasing the report—but some have charged the profile was aimed at discrediting him.

William Frates, Ehrlichman's chief lawyer, said a subpoena for White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig would be dropped because "such an order would interfere with his duties to the President at Key Biscayne, Fla."

JOBS

unemployment rate at about the 5 per cent plateau for the past six months "is one of the more gratifying economic developments of 1974 so far."

Despite the usual influx into the labor market of students looking for summer jobs, the number of out-of-work Americans totaled 4.8 million in June, virtually the same number as in May, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Employment, on the other hand, edged up slightly last month to 86.2 million. The number of Americans holding jobs has now increased 400,000 in the past two months after six months of virtually no change.

As usual, unemployment was highest among teen-agers, but the 15.6 per cent jobless rate for this age group was the same as in May, the BLS said.

The job figures are adjusted for seasonal variation, including the annual surge of young job-seekers following the close of the school year.

A 5-year-old child was seriously hurt and a Forest Knolls woman injured when the car in which they were riding overturned yesterday in West Marin.

The child, Nicole Allen of San Francisco, was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple injuries suffered in the 6:45 a.m. crash.

Dee Ukkerd, 26, of 120 Resaca Avenue, was reported in fair condition at the hospital with head injuries and cuts.

Amnesty Demanded In July 4 Vet Rally

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Under a baking sun, several hundred veterans marched peacably through the city yesterday, demanding better benefits for themselves and amnesty for draft evaders.

Led by a young woman with a bullhorn, they chanted, "What do we want? Amnesty! When do we want it? Now!" There were banners from New York, Chicago, Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio.

They carried signs saying: "Universal Unconditional Amnesty For All War Resisters."

The demonstrators sat on the grass north of the Jefferson Memorial, sang songs and listened to speeches. The flags of North Vietnam, the Viet Cong, the Khmer Rouge of Cambodia and the Pathet Lao of Laos decorated a makeshift rostrum.

The march was sponsored by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War-Winter Soldier Organization. One member said the name came from those "who stuck it out during the winter at Valley Forge —and we'll stick it out."

The group wants an end of U.S. aid to the governments of South Vietnamese President Thieu and Cambodian Prime Minister Lon Nol, "decent benefits" for veterans, "single-grade discharge" for all Vietnam vets and "kick Nixon out."

A separate group, calling itself the "Second American Bonus March," held its own demonstration, demanding an end to "disgraceful conditions" in VA hospitals, an increase in rights for all veterans, "humane homes" for disabled veterans, more jobs for veterans and expanded programs for Spanish-speaking and female veterans.

This demonstration was sponsored by the American G.I. Forum, an organization of 168,000 predominantly Chicano members; the American Veterans Movement, with 8,000 memberrs, and the National Association For Puerto Rican Civil Rights, with 25,000 members.

Singer Victim Of Club Fire

VALHALLA, N.Y. (UPI) — The lead singer with the rock group creations has been identified as the 24th and final victim of last Sunday's flash fire at Gulliver's discotheque in Port Chester, N.Y.

The Westchester County Medical Examiner's Office in Valhalla, N.Y., announced yesterday that George D. Chase, 25, of New York City, was positively identified after his fingerprints were flown in from Albany for examination by medical technicians.

Chase was the lead vocalist with Creations, the rock band that was playing at the discotheque on the morning of the fire. The group's organist, Damon DeFeis, also died in the blaze.

Japan 'Acid Rain' Nets Complaints

TOKYO (UPI) — More than 190 persons in Tokyo and Yokohama complained of eye irritation yesterday because of what pollution experts called "acid rain."

Government scientists said they believe the "acid rain" was created by nitrogen oxide and sulfur oxide pollutants that were ionized by moisture.

DELICIOUS TRADITION — Members of the Robello family queue up around tables groaning under 16 pounds of spaghetti, nine quarts of sauce, 17 pounds of hamburger and other goodies. The Marin-based family has celebrated Independence Day with a family picnic for 55 years.

ROBELLOS GATHER AGAIN

Biggest One-Family Picnic Sees 55th Independence Day

By REBECCA LARSEN

In an age when families are broken up and scattered across the country as far and fast as moving vans can carry them, the Robellos of Marin have managed to keep alive the tradition of an annual family picnic on the Fourth of July for 55 years.

There were 75 of them together again yesterday at Samuel P. Taylor State Park, along with a 15-gallon keg of beer, 16 pounds of uncooked spaghetti, nine quarts of spaghetti sauce, 17 pounds of hamburger and innumerable stuffed zucchini, cakes and cookies.

It was the kind of family picnic almost everyone has attended at one time or another. But for most it is just a dim memory of the past — left over from the days when you saw your grandparents every other week and counted your cousins among your best friends.

There were the kids screaming and running, boyfriends hugging their girlfriends on the sidelines and grandmothers and grandfathers playing with grandchildren. The women of the family sat around a table talking about their children the men gathered around the beer keg as they waited for it to settle so it could be tapped.

The oldest family member present was 75-year-old John Robello of San Rafael and the youngest was Dana Cicanese, 3, of Rohnert Park.

Although one branch of the family came from Alaska for the event, the majority still live in Marin and Sonoma.

According to Louis Robello, 67, the traditional Fourth of July affair goes back to the days when his parents, immigrants from Italy, used to take him and their other nine children to picnics at an old brewery in San Rafael. "Then the brewery shut down, and we started going to a little beach near China Camp. Then that got overrun, and we went to Big Lagoon Park, what's now known as Muir Beach.

But for the last 40 years, the Robellos have descended on Samuel P. Taylor State Park, since before the park became state property.

There are only five of the original 10 children left now. The surviving sisters and brothers estimate that about 40 grandchildren descended from the original group.

One or two women in the family handle picnic arrangements. They keep lists of who is coming and what each person will bring. They also split up extra costs among the families and keep track of who pays and who doesn't.

With the crowds coming to the park for the Fourth, some Robello family members now have to show up on the big day when the park opens at 6 a.m. so that they can grab 15 picnic tables for the clan.

"I think it really means something that we have done this all these years even with all the families breaking up nowadays, said Linda Wolfe of Riverside, one of the grandchildren. "Most of us here have only missed two or three times, and some have only missed once.

Why do they do it?

"It's fun, we just love the area, and it's a family tradition, said Louis Robello.

Sinatra Entertains Aboard Midway In Japan Harbor

YOKOSUKA, Japan (UPI) — Frank Sinatra cast his spell today over 3,000 U.S. sailors and their families aboard the aircraft carrier Midway and claimed he hadn't sung so early in the day since he was a choir boy.

Wearing a gold-studded faded denim suit, Sinatra sang old and new songs, including "Bad, Bad Leroy Brown" and "My Way" to a cheering crowd in the ship's hangar bay.

He made the special benefit performance on the eve of his departure for Australia. During a 10-day visit to Japan he had made three concert appearances for a reported $438,000.

Sinatra took a train from Tokyo to Yokosuka port, a distance of about 20 miles, because rain and heavy fog made a trip by Navy helicopter impossible. He was accompanied by his band and Barbara Marx, former wife of Zeppo Marx of the Marx Brothers, and by comedian Pat Henry.

"It's really nice to spend at least part of the day with you during this Fourth of July holiday weekend, while we're all away from home," Sinatra told the sailors. He swung into a bouncing rendition of "You Are The Sunshine of My Life," followed by "Sweet Caroline," and "I Get A Kick Out Of You."

He talked proudly of his first granddaughter, Angela Jennifer, born May 22 to his daughter Nancy.

George Washington was inaugurated as President April 30, 1789.

28 Injured As Six Amtrak Cars Derail

MELVERN, Kan. (UPI) — Six cars of an eastbound Amtrak train—the old Superchief—jumped the tracks near Melvern today, and four sleeper cars slid down a 50-foot embankment, injuring 28 persons.

There were no fatalities, but officials said serious injuries included broken arms and legs and head injuries.

Santa Fe railroad officials said trees along the embankment cushioned the fall of the sleeper cars. Two cars, a lounge car and a dining car, rolled over and seven other cars derailed but stayed on the roadbed.

The train was carrying 317 passengers in 18 cars and three diesel units.

Officials said the uninjured passengers were taken into Kansas City on the remaining cars or by bus.

"The cars just rolled down the embankment," said Melvern town marshal Ron Logan. "The derailment occurred right where the railroad went over an overpass and the cars just slid down the bank to the road, laying on their side."

Earthquake Rocks Western Russia

BERKELEY (UPI) — A severe earthquake jarred a remote section of the Soviet Union near the border of China and Western Mongolia yesterday.

The University of California Seismographic Station said the temblor registered 6.5 on the Richter scale and its epicenter was southeast of Semipalatinsk. It was recorded at 12:30 p.m. PDT.

Dollar Holds Own In Overseas Exchanges

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Gold recovered hesitantly today from its lowest price in more than five months. The U.S. dollar moved erratically in European markets and advanced in Tokyo.

Bullion opened at $133 an ounce in Zurich, up $2 from the closing price yesterday and at $131.50 in London, up 50 cents overnight and $3.50 better than its lowest point yesterday. The closing price was the lowest since Jan. 17.

The metal gained at the start of the trading to $133.50 but at the morning fixing its value fell back to the opening price.

Dealers said there were signs that renewed interest in gold was petering out, but it was too early to say whether or not the metal had reached its floor.

The dollar firmed against all currencies in the London foreign exchange market on predictions that some U.S. prime rates, already at a record 12 per cent, might go up to 12.20 per cent.

Dealers said banks with floating rates —such as the First National City Bank and the First National Bank of Chicago —were expected to increase their rates above the 12 per cent mark.

The dollar gained fractionally overnight from a close of $2.3875 to the pound to $2.3865. It gained marginally also in Frankfurt, Brussels, Amsterdam and Milan, was unchanged in Paris and declined in Frankfurt and Zurich.

Opening rates were: Frankfurt 2.55 German marks, up from 2.548; Zurich 2.982 Swiss francs, down from 2.983; Paris 4.805, unchanged; Brussels free market 39.65 Belgian francs, up from 39.60; Amsterdam 2.6575, up from 2.6525; and Milan 645.75 lire, up from 645.65.

In Tokyo, the dollar opened at 286 yen, 0.40 higher than the close and advanced to 286.70 in early trading. The median price was slightly lower at 286.50, but the American currency rose to 287.35 at close, surpassing its March 11 peak of 286 yen.

Cemetery Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It was announced yesterday that a new contract has been signed between 12 San Francisco Peninsula cemeteries and a union representing 220 cemetery workers.

Holiday Noise A Near Tragedy

DETROIT (UPI) — Police said a man who wanted to "make a little noise" on Independence Day shot some rounds from a .22-caliber rifle into a garage, critically wounding a 3-year-old boy.

Doctors at Children's Hospital said the youngster, De Shawn Gilliam, was in critical but stable condition last night with a bullet inches from his heart.

Police said Roosevelt Williams, 32, Detroit, was being held on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Balancing A Gain By Selling A Loser

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My holdings include Fundamental Investors, TVA Power Bond 7¾ per cent due in 1998, Virginia Electric & Power common (NYSE) and Allegheny Power Systems (NYSE). I will have a long-term capital gain this year which I would like to offset with a loss. Should I sell VEPCO; it is down substantially from my cost? — N.H.

A. This utility recently received approval of a $28.3 million rate increase, $50 million had been requested. The boost would be reflected in last-half earnings, which should at least match 1973 results. The shares, now trading at less than 5X estimated net, should be held for partial recovery prior to the end of the year. Sale at that time rather than now would permit you to accrue two more dividend payments.

Allegheny, with 99 per cent of its generating plants coal-fired, is in an excellent fuel position. Earnings for the 12 months through April were slightly higher year to year, despite an increase in the number of shares outstanding. Capital expenditures are expected to rise about 7 per cent annually through 1975, increasing net plant by about 9 per cent per year. Shares of this high-grade utility should be held. Your mutual fund and TVA bonds also should be retained, the former for its recovery aspects, the latter for safety and income.

Q. I am interested in government-backed agency bonds. You mentioned recently that these paid 11 per cent on $100,000 amounts. — R.T.

A. The particular securities mentioned which return 11 per cent were commercial paper and certificates of deposit issued by commercial banks. Agency bonds and notes are second to Treasury issues in terms of safety and for that reason yield less than unsecured commercial paper and also CD's. However, two government-sponsored enterprises have issuee bonds recently with 9¼ per cent coupon rates, a near record high yield. Federal Intermediate Credit Banks offered $811 million in 9¼ per cent bonds due in April 1975, and Banks for Cooperatives issued $398 million due in January 1975.

Both of these government-sponsored corporations issue debt in $5,000 minimum denominations. While their offerings are not directly guaranteed by the Treasury, both agencies operate under the supervision of the Farm Credit Administration, under the executive branch of the government. In each case interest is exempt from state, local and municipal taxation although subject to federal taxation.

1935 CHRYSLER AIRFLOW

This 1935 Airflow, restored by Dr. James Adcock of Washington, Ga., was among cars entered in the Airflow Club of America's 11th annual meet in Stone Mountain, Ga., recently. The Airflow Club is a nationwide organization devoted to restoration of Chrysler and DeSoto Airflow cars of the 1934-37 vintage. A caravan of cars from Downey, Calif. also participated.

Trading Lags, Prices Dip In Sluggish Market Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many investors took a long weekend as trading lagged and prices declined on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Analysts said many investors decided to take a four-day weekend and this slowed the trading. Interest rate rises also had kept investors on the sidelines in the past several weeks.

The prime rate —that banks charge key corporate customers —headed for a general 12 per cent level today as most of the nation's major banks raised it from 11 ¾ per cent. Included in the raise were Bank of America, the largest in the nation, and First National City Bank of New York, the second.

Polaroid, one of the glamor stocks, was the most active issue, up ⅜ at 24 ¼ on 52,300 shares.

Appliances Warranty Coverage Expanding

PARIS (UPI) — Warranty coverage of major home appliances in the United States is the most widespread in history, according to the Frigidaire Divisio of General Motors.

The firm reports that of 330 million home appliances currently in use in the United States, almost half were bought in the past five years, and thus fall within the usual warranty period.

Blind Can Use Checks In Braille

LOS ANGELES — A unique banking service for the blind, inaugurated by United California Bank (UCB) in Los Angeles and San Francisco last fall, has now been extended to all of the bank's 254 branches in California.

The braille check-writing service is designed to give blind persons greater independence and dignity in financial affairs. It includes an aluminum "checkwriter" which allows a customer to label check-reference information in braille, and a special monthly bank statement printed in braille.

Customers already using the braille service say it gives them greater independence because they need not rely upon friends or relatives to write their checks and reconcile their monthly statement.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at 413.5 cents per fine ounce down 11 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at 413.5 down 11 cents and fabricated silver at 423.8 down 11.3 cents.

LEON JAWORSKI
'Dark, tragic episode'

'Calamitous Burden' — Watergate

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski yesterday called Watergate "a dark and tragic episode," and urged the legal profession to be on guard to prevent the recurrence of similar scandals.

He also indicated that he would like to be able to respond to criticism of how he has handled his job, but he could not comment on specifics of cases for fear of prejudicing court cases.

Addressing a group of young Texas attorneys, he quoted former White House aide Charles Colson as saying, "We cannot accept the principle that men in high government office can act in disregard of the rights of even one individual citizen."

"What he said at the time is more meaningful, much more significant than any message I could impart to you today," Jaworski said of Colson's statement upon entering a guilty plea for his role in the Watergate cover-up.

"Without pointing the finger of guilt at anyone, there already have been enough public admissions of wrongdoing to make what is known at Watergate a dark and tragic episode in the illustrious history of this nation," Jaworski said.

"It is not the first ignominy our nation has had to bear, although its dimensions are of particularly unusual proportion," he added.

"Let us hope on this day we so proudly observe that there will never be another such calamitous burden to shoulder in our affairs of government."

Jaworski said he had noted "a constructive interest" from the public in the Watergate issue, but noted "a failure in some of the communications as well as in the observations of columnists, to understand the nature of our problems.

"If we are free to explain, we do, but often we experience the frustrations of not being able to enlighten critics because of the confidentiality of our efforts and the responsibility of not commenting to avoid adversely and unfairly affecting the rights of individuals under investigation and some who are awaiting trial."

Jaworski also had this warning: "When dictators and tyrants seek to destroy the freedoms of men, their first target is the legal profession and through it the rule of law.

"If they can bend the processes of law to their own will, their objective has been gained. Is this not what Hitler did in Nazi Germany?"

Search Ends For Father And Son

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — The Coast Guard has called off a search for a Stonington man and his 7-year-old son, believed drowned yesterday after the man dove off his lobster boat to save his son, who had fallen overboard.

The incident occurred about two miles northeast of Mattituck Point, N.Y., a coastguard spokesman said.

Roderick Debragga, 32, and his son Rodney were the object of a Coast Guard search by helicopter and rescue boat which was called off after 3½ hours last night and not scheduled to resume today.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

The French Have A Way In Food; At Le Camembert It's Great

You can thank the French for a lot of things — and in my game most of them are food.

Anyone who enjoys eating in a restaurant sooner or later simply has to acquire both a taste for and some knowledge of cuisine a la Francaise. Whether you speak the language you eventually learn to rely less on the subtitles on the menu. You'll come to know that "La Truite aux Amandes" is trout with almonds; "La Coquille de Fruits de Mer" is seafood in a shell and "L'escalope de Veau a la Creme" is veal scallops with a cream sauce — without reading the usual translation below.

And even if you're a loyal American, who wouldn't think of buying a European car, you'll have to agree that dishes like these and many others have set an alltime record in the preparation of fine food.

In America, French restaurants spring up first in the big cities and tourist centers where dining out is a way of life. Soon they spread to the suburbs where many of the dining-outers prefer to live. Since suburban living is a relaxed way of living, casual attitudes and dress, a good French restaurant doesn't have much trouble picking up patrons if the traditional forms of elegance are offered as compatible to the suburbanite's own tradition of informality. In fact, such a place will do even more — it will pick up a strong following of diners from the big cities.

And such a place in Marin is Le Camembert on Shoreline Highway, Tamalpais Valley, where the dining rooms are invariably well occupied seven nights a week. If you have any liking at all for French food and French restaurants you'll like this one. And unless you go haywire over some of those premium chateau labels on the wine list (one of the longest I've seen) you'll come out with your pocketbook still intact.

Prices are from $5 to $7.50 and they include a pate or soup du jour, a green salad and a dessert. Sixteen or 17 entrees are offered — sometimes a special. If this happens to be "fisherman's veal" (the French answer to steak and lobster), beautifully done with veal and scallops, you'll enjoy it — even at $8.25.

Nobody seated at Le Camembert's tables hurries very much. No one feels like it. There's no view to gaze at through the windows — except a small tributary of Richardson Bay from the cocktail lounge. But no view is needed. The food's the thing.

If you feel that you must look at something besides your plate and your table mates, try sizing up the excellent decor. Every bit was done by owners Guy Francoz and Gilbert Duquesne, and is something to behold.

THERE IS GOOD NEWS for London Arms on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile.

Owner Don Johnson, who can use extra space to advantage, has leased the former Bib 'n' Rib of Ron Brandes, who now has a new toy — restoring the old Olema Hotel. Bib 'n' Rib is right next door to Don's kitchen and in the same building.

He already has a use permit from the San Anselmo Planning Commission, so he can go ahead with cutting through the wall and setting about expanding his pub and food facilities.

He'll gain a family dining room for nine or 10 more tables and possibly room for another dartboard. Actually he thinks he will come out better than when he was occupying the building at the opposite end of London Arms sometime ago and had to give it up when it was sold. (This is now occupied by El Greco).

The extra space will be redecorated to match his present theme and he's hoping to have it ready for use in about another month.

HERE ARE SOME NEW DISHES at the new La Marmite, 909 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael to come out of chef and co-owner Yves Larguinat's kitchen:

Rabbit, sauteed with a vermouth sauce — $7.25.

Braised sweetbreads on a pastry shell with a Madeira sauce — $7.

Filet of beef baked in a pastry shell, also with a Madeira sauce. This is $8.50.

All prices are for the dinner. A la carte is 75 cents less.

THE GOLD NUGGET, on the San Rafael stretch of the Miracle Mile, is now closed for a brief vacation period.

This will last through July 21, with the reopening date set for Monday, July 22.

THE OLD VIKING out in Lagunitas, which has consistently closed on Mondays and Tuesdays, is changing this schedule for the summer.

Matts and Phyllis Mattsson have decided to keep open for dinners on a seven days a week basis — to go on as long as the combination of good weather and Monday and Tuesday night patrons justifies the extra time.

Sunday dinners are still served from 4:30 p.m. and dinners the rest of the week from 5:30.

PIERRE BITTERER has announced that fresh cracked crab is now being offered for both lunch and dinner at his Spaulding Avenue Chez Pierre restaurant in San Anselmo. As a lunch entree it's $3.25. At dinner it's offered as an a la carte appetizer. Apple and rasp berry tarts are also new lunch and dinner items. And rack of lamb is now on the dinner menu at $7.50.

Want a view? This could be a nice place for your luncheon group. The mid-day outlook of the Ross Valley is beautiful.

WILL RESTAURANT FOOD of the 21st Century be different?

An article in Hospitality, popular magazine for restaurant owners, suggests that it just

Manager Of Station Is Out On Bail

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas ordered the release on bail yesterday of a Los Angeles radio station manager jailed for contempt of court.

U.S. District Judge A. Andrew Hauk had sent KPFK-FM radio station manager Will Lewis to jail last month after he refused to answer a federal grand jury's questions and to surrender to the FBI a Symbionese Liberation Army tape recording and a letter signed by the Weather Underground.

Douglas, acting on an appeal filed last Friday by Lewis's attorney, ordered his release on bail pending "decision of his case on the merits by the court of appeals."

The Douglas decision, announced by a Supreme Court spokesman, said: "I indicate no view on the merits but the applicant being a newsman with all First Amendment protections and with no criminal record, I have entered an order releasing him on his personal recognizance pending decision of his appeal . . ."

Earlier, Judge Hauk apologized for a burst of anger and lifted a gag order he imposed when he sent Lewis to jail.

Hauk issued the gag order June 19. It prohibited anyone connected with the case from discussing any aspect of it in public or with the news media

Problems Of Harbors Pose Big Problem

By LARRY WOOD
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

SEATTLE, Wash. — All up and down the Pacific Coast, major port cities are wondering what to do about their harbors.

Faced with the need to modernize port facilities, to adjust to city congestion, to adapt to urban-renewal programs as well as to environmental laws, harbor planners are studying ways to develop Pacific Coast waterfronts and shorelines.

In most cities, the goal is to find ways to re-design port areas so that waterfronts will offer pathways and pier-parks to the people as well as modern docks to commerce and trade.

Developments in the Puget Sound port of Seattle are an example of what is going on along the big waterfronts on the Pacific edge.

Seattle's Mayor Wes Uhlman says that, in the past six years, a "natural economic trend occurred simultaneously with a rising tide of interest in 'people' access to the shorelines of Seattle."

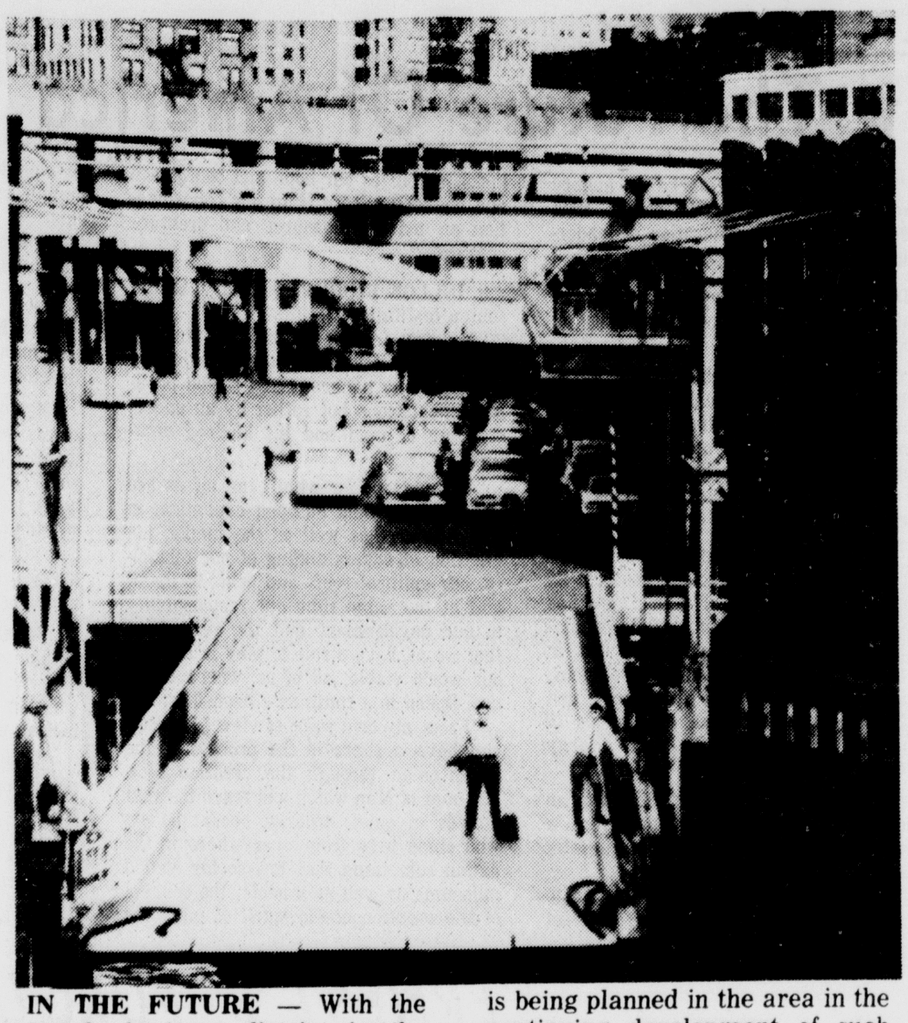
In Seattle, the central waterfront area is no longer used for deep-sea shipping because the port needs larger piers as well as modern docks for containerized cargo. As a result ocean-borne commerce has moved to other portions of the harbor.

The change in the port economy gave Seattle the opportunity to develop a new Central Waterfront Park where people can stroll, shop, relax, picnic, bike, fish — or maybe just watch the ships go by.

An exciting feature of the Central Waterfront Park now under construction will be a new Seattle Aquarium, to be built on the north side of Pier 59.

The Aquarium will not only be beautiful in design but also will be educational and fun. It will feature tidal pools, a dry display area, a fish-ladder, and viewing ponds. Part of the total aquarium complex will be a moorage float, with access both to the aquarium and to the street.

All along Alaskan Way, there will be trees, flowers, and shrubs, linking the Seattle Aquarium to a new Waterfront Park promenade.



IN THE FUTURE — With the Seattle business district in the background, cars wait on ferry transportation. A waterfront park is being planned in the area in the continuing development of such harbors.

The Central Waterfront Park and the Seattle Aquarium are being funded by $8 million in Forward Thrust bonds approved by the voters in 1968 supplementing this revenue is nearly $1 million in state and-federal open space funds.

According to George Rockrise —whose San Francisco firm of Rockrise-Odermatt-Mountjou-Amis prepared the Northwest city's preliminary waterfront plan, "Seattle's central waterfront has a unique marine setting and the potential for an image of international renown."

At first the new park will be basically linear and will cover about 15 acres extending from Pier 52 to Pier 61. In this area there will be a 1,800-foot-long promenade paralleling Alaskan Way and a 750-foot long esplanade extending over the water between Pier 56 and Pier 59.

To be developed later — in a long-term plan — are approximately 16,177 acres of piers, land, and water that have been allocated to the total waterfront park area.

The Seattle Central Waterfront Park is on Elliott Bay and adjoins the city's central business district. At the north end of the new park is the Pike Plaza Development project and at the south end is the historic Pioneer Square Area, salted for restoration.

The new park is also near the modern new terminal for the Washington State Ferries. Because ferries are an important part of Seattle-ites' life-style, the harbor park's easy access to the terminal is a pleasant advantage for foot-passengers.

"At the heart of all planning and development in Seattle at the present time is a thrust toward creating people-oriented places," says Mayor Uhlman.

"Nowhere has this thrust been manifested more clearly than in the central waterfront area adjacent to downtown Seattle."

In a preface to the published Shorelines Act, Washington's Gov. Dan Evans said:

"Experiences in other parts of the country — and increasingly so here in Washington — show that we cannot continue to take our shoreline resources for granted.

"Our shorelines are a limited asset — we cannot increase them, but we can lose them if we fail to protect them through a sound, comprehensive management program."

Seattle is moving toward these goals of sound management in tis new Central Waterfront Park.

French Cling To One Joy Despite Spiraling Inflation

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — Prices soar ever higher but the French cling to the joy of life that not even inflation can take from them —good eating.

The magazine Elle (She) published a poll by the Sofres organization showing that to the French, a well-caloried table is one of the last pleasures they would give up even in the face of an expected economic depression because of higher oil prices.

Beef has boomed 45 per cent in price in three years. Yet only 32 per cent of those polled said they are eating less beef — for generations the favorite meat in France —in favor of eating more chicken and fish. Sixty-seven per cent said their beef menus had not changed and 1 per cent are eating more beef.

Twenty-four per cent of those polled have cut down on oil, also more expensive, apparently in favor of cooking with butter. Otherwise the French are eating virtually as much fruit, vegetables and, of course, drinking as much wine, even with higher prices.

Another question in the Elle poll was, "If you are offered a free vacation in a hotel and you have the choice of two hotels, which would you choose: the comfortable hotel with mediocre food, or the uncomfortable hotel with excellent cuisine?"

Eighty per cent of the French polled predictably said they would prefer to eat a great meal and sleep on a lumpy mattress.

The good restaurants of Paris are always crowded and if you have not reserved a table at least by 5 p.m. for dinner you are doomed to seek a lesser establishment or one of the thousands of foreign restaurants which suddenly dot the city. Service is faster or the food takes less time to eat, because seats can usually be found.

For centuries the French scorned foreign food until the great wave of Vietnamese escaping the French and U.S. wars in their country. Now more than 1,000 Vietnamese restaurants serve their specialties in Paris.

Crowds of immigrant workers from North Africa in the past five years have resulted in another 1,000 Arab restaurants serving cous-cous, the typical North African dish.

This summer's fad is Greek restaurants. The Latin Quarter is awash with kebabs turning on spits in restaurant windows.

The hot weather at last has arrived in Paris after a wool suit May, and Parisians have reverted to another traditional pastime, sitting in sidewalk cafes and girl watching.

This summer the skirt is back. A casual count from a vantage point in Les Deux Magots indicates pants are less numerous this spring. Some girls are floating in long printed skirts or the 1930 bias-cut midiskirts complete with high heeled shoes and bright red lipstick.

The skirt for spring does not mean pants are out, just that the girls are wearing both. Blue jeans remain the Left Bank uniform for males and females.

Last summer's T-shirts imprinted with the names of U.S. universities still are with us, an amusing touch for the French whose universities have no campuses, football teams, cheerleaders, etc.

The sidewalk cafe talk centers on the "new style" of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, who has opened the presidential Elysee palace to the public, saved Notre Dame cathedral from a superhighway and invited schoolchildren to his inauguration.

Another poll shows 65 per cent of the French approve of his attempts to loosen up protocol and eliminate the formal gap between the rulers and the ruled.

Feuder Kills Two In Fresno Bar

FRESNO (UPI) — Two men were shot dead in a bar south of here last night, the Fresno County Sheriff's office said.

Bob Neal, 55, Fresno, was killed by an unidentified man carrying a .22 caliber revolver following an argument, officers said.

The second man, Rich Mendez, 40, San Jose, did not take part in the argument, but was shot as he rose from his stool, they said.

Both men died en route to a hospital.

No arrests were made.

may be. And it quotes eight diversified authorities on the subject — science fiction writers, food service executives, research and development men and restaurant managers.

Some of their views into the future have resulted in these prophesies:

A steady trend toward vegetarianism due to a scarcity and climbing prices of meat.

Less gourmet dining — fewer people will be able to afford it.

Less food — so people will be eating less.

More reliance on small ocean life for food.

More use of soybean "extenders" through new types of processing.

A healthful return to natural fibrous foods — whole grains, vegetables and fruits.

Highly fabricated meat. Inroads in the processing of ground meat by textured plant protein.

I dunno — I respect these worthy authorities, but it just may be that they have underestimated the resourcefulness of the French.

Patriotism Based Upon Principle

On this page today, Roscoe Drummond ends a five-part series on the question, "Are We Facing the Decline and Fall of the U.S.A.?"

The question was raised by Alistair Cooke in the epilogue to his "America." And in seeking the answer, he and others suggested that rededication to the principles underlying government of, by and for the people is needed.

AN UNITED STATES senator showed an awareness of this in remarks a few weeks ago on the Senate floor.

"I think," said the senator, "it is very important that we, in our priorities, hold our Constitution and all its principles in reverence and above all else that we lay stress on the means we use to achieve our ends.

"If we do this, we will then look upon dissent and questions not as disloyalty but as patriotism. Not the old-fashioned patriotism of keeping your mouth shut while everything around you is going wrong, but the guts to stand up and question, in an orderly and in a peaceful way.

"That is a patriotism far better suited to these times than the patriotism of cliches and wearing the trappings of democracy while failing to understand it."

THE SENATOR who said that is Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut, remembered as the bumbling questioner in the early days of the Ervin Committee hearings last summer.

He made his remarks during discussion of calling Secy. of State Henry Kissinger to answer questions about his role in authorization of secret wiretaps of State Department employees and others — questions Senator Weicker said should have been answered before Kissinger was confirmed in his cabinet position.

Kissinger, a few days earlier, had threatened to resign. He was in a huff because he was asked about those wiretaps on his return from negotiating a Middle East settlement. His accomplishment, he felt, should exempt him from such questioning.

Senator Weicker didn't think so.

"The title of president, the title of secretary of state, the title of senator mean nothing," he said. "The title of American means everything. The sooner those in high places and the American people understand that, the sooner we once again make alive the spirit, the concepts, and the principles that have brought greatness to the United States of America."

AND HE SAID something else that bears very much on the meaning of patriotism, and that harks back to the high principles of those who helped launch a new nation on a course of independence nearly two centuries ago:

"Now, the question obviously comes up as to whether I would approve of ending the Vietnam war or a peace settlement in the Mideast, if achieving such an end involved shaving the Constitution just a bit.

"The answer is, 'No.' "

That's something to think about — on the day after July 4 or any other day.

Affectionate Doves

Some folks think Marin's mourning doves are sad and cite their mournful call as evidence. But for us their call is not sad, but rather an expression of great tenderness befitting their affectionate temperament. These birds mate for life, unless one dies, in which case the remaining partner will mate again. They stay together year in and out. They share the burdens of nest building, hatching and raising their young. In every respect, they demonstrate unselfish love. That's why they don't seem sad to us. We think they were misnamed.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Student Lobby Helps Kill Change In Primary

By EARL G. WATERS

Efforts to shorten the time between the state's primary and general elections have again been shot down. The proposal, this time by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, was strongly backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan. It would have scheduled future primaries for the day after Labor Day. It failed to gain approval of the Assembly Elections Committee.

Ironically, the defeat was caused largely by the student lobby. It is an irony because the students have been in the forefront for political reforms. Yet it was in the pursuit of their special interests that they opposed the election change. Their opposition was on the grounds the date selected was one when students would be absent from the campuses.

This can only be taken as a selfish reason, motivated by a desire for undue power over the communities in which colleges are located. That such influence must be labeled undue is because most students are only transitory residents of the college communities. They come to study and, having graduated, depart, leaving the permanent residents saddled with bonds, tax overrides and other added expenses which their temporary power has imposed.

But Arnett's bill would not have changed that, for the students have the best of two worlds. They have the option to vote as residents of their family homes or they can register as voters in their college communities. In either case they could vote absentee.

THERE WAS SOME minor opposition to the proposal from county clerks to the specific date sought.

As Sacramento County Clerk William Durley observed, sufficient time must be allowed for election officials to accomplish the requirements of the law or the laws must be changed. For example, present law requires the mailing of sample ballots 30 days before an election. New York, which allows only 30 days between its primary and general elections, does not mail sample ballots.

But Durley is not an opponent of a primary change. His point on the primary change was merely that other laws will have to be altered and some things may have to be sacrificed if the primary and general elections are placed close together. He said he believed an August primary could be achieved without any significant change.

OTHER OPPOSITION in the past has been due to the national nominating conventions. Unless the political parties scheduled these for later dates, California would be compelled to hold a special presidential primary every four years if the regular primary were to be moved to a date later than June.

This does not seem to be a valid reason for not moving it to August to shorten the time for campaigning and thus reduce campaign costs. From 1913 to 1944 the state primary was held in late August with a separate presidential primary being held in May.

The importance of the presidency alone justify the costs of such an election every four years. But it need not be held just for that purpose. The possibility of multiple benefits stemming from rescheduling school, special district and county central committee elections with a special presidential primary suggest an interim study undertake development of a workable bill for enactment next year.

THE DECLINE AND FALL OF THE U.S.A.?

Leaders View The Future Of America

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND
(Last in a series of five articles.)

WASHINGTON — In this final column of the series on whether the United States can recover the quality and staying power of its democracy, I wish to share the views of several distinguished Americans who have written to me.

Dr. Philip Handler, president, National Academy of Sciences:

"From the global standpoint we must confront the economics of perpetual scarcity —scarcity of energy, scarcity of mineral resources, scarcity of food, scarcity of everything but people . . .

"We cannot go it alone. Not merely for humanitarian reasons, not merely because we cannot live indefinitely as an affluent island on an otherwise impoverished planet but because our civilization even now requires importation of a rather significant quantity of more than two dozen minerals . . .

"The opportunity for the 'good life' — at least for Americans — was never more real. We can use science-based technology to manage our physical problems, to assure our food supply, to protect our environment in a sense we have never known before, and in so doing we can retain most of those values which we cherish from the American past.

"Throughout our remarkable history leaders have been made rather than born, and the next generation of leadership will appear in due course."

DEAN RUSK, former secretary of state; professor of law, University of Georgia:

"The young people who are now in our schools and colleges are destined to write a unique chapter in the history of the human race. They have on their plate a number of problems which are different in kind than any which mankind has faced before.

"One thinks of a more assured decision on how to keep the nuclear beast in its cage, the adjustment of man's appetites to a wholesome environment, the population explosion, the sharp reduction in tensions arising out of racial, religious, cultural and ideological differences, and adjustments to diminishing supplies of certain raw materials and energy sources . . .

"There are no foxholes in which we can hide if we try to withdraw from a responsible participation in world affairs . . .

"The American people will respond to a leadership which calls us to great tasks, mobilizes our hope and confidence and shakes us loose from our concentration on today's pleasures and creature comforts."

S. DILLON RIPLEY, secretary, Smithsonian Institution:

"My own feeling is that this state of affairs can be turned around, not quickly and easily by panaceas and raised popular expectations but rather by an understanding of man and his kindred creatures.

"I would opt for what some of us are doing in the field of open education, in the museums as well as the media, the creation of understanding of our ethnicity, our cultural roots and pride in them, and at the same time our responsibility to our environment and the realization that we all have a role to play in keeping our world viable, all of us, wherever we are, linked in a common citizenship . . .

"From my own point of view I hope we can have a share in the process at the Smithsonian through the creation of a Museum of Man which will teach the vast crowds of quiet, orderly, decent people who come here from everywhere in the nation something that has so far eluded museums as well as schools: the concept of the creation of the spirit of man, the development of ideas which arise in the human species wherever it happens to exist . . . We can visualize for a moment the truths that lie in the world about us and in the process rediscover our humanity."

"My own outlook is optimistic. If it seems we are being told from all sides today that man is a failure, this comes about ironically enough because we are being judged in terms of a whole new set of standards in a world where almost everything seems possible, thus making every want, every injustice and every wrong seem unbearable.

"For the first time in human history — within our lifetimes here — technology has made possible on a massive scale what an economist has called 'the democratization of privilege.'

"Today increasing numbers enjoy freedom from enervating, backbreaking labor; the means to travel and explore the world's wonders; the leisure to enjoy nature's beauty and new dimensions of one's own creativity."

New Seashore Shuttle Not Synanon Service

The I-J erred in stating that the free shuttle bus service in Point Reyes Seashore is "provided by Synanon Corp. with the cooperation of the National Park Serivce."

The new shuttle from park headquarters to Palormarin is a Whistlestop Wheels bus chartered from Marin Senior Coordinating Council at a cost of $10.50 per hour, according to Scott Tilley, Seashore administrative officer.

The Limantour shuttle, now in its third year, is operated by Synanon. Under this contract, the park service pays $16 per hour for two buses.

Seashore officials should be congratulated for expanding the shuttles, which will run on week ends and holidays through Labor Day.

We recently tried out the Palomarin shuttle with a walk from Five Brooks to Palomarin, where the bus brought us back to our starting point. The trail climbed on a gentle slope up a lush canyon, then wound along the ridge, sometimes passing through woods so dense that the trees were sheathed in moss.

The point-to-point walks made possible by the shuttle services are opening many new vistas of this beautiful park to the hikers who try them.

Admiral Zumwalt 'Surrenders To Soviet'

Why were you so little impressed with a UPI dispatch from Washington that you buried it on page 42 of last night's (July 1) issue and gave it a misleading headline: "Zumwalt Shuns Vet Chief Post"?

It was misleading because it did not highlight the startling important points in the dispatch. Every newspaper in the country should be carrying screaming headlines: "Zumwalt Surrenders Navy to Soviets" because psychologically that is what he must have known he was doing. A stance of surrender and defeat that is entirely foreign to the history and traditions of the United States Navy.

What a stimulating effect this must have had on the heads of NATO and on the President as Brezhnev laid the dispatch in front of him announcing that his CNO had proclaimed that the Navy, in his opinion, had lost control of the sea" and that "the United States would be the loser in a confrontation with the Soviet Union"; also suggesting that "American commanders consider keeping their forces out of hot spots whenever possible." It could cause NATO to completely fall apart.

It is one thing that your command is inferior to the enemy, but to admit it to him is equivalent to throwing in the towel and surrendering without a fight. Thank God Zumwalt is not speaking for the Navy even if he is CNO . . .

The Bell Tolls For Stratford: Case Study Of Small College

DANVILLE, Va. — Colleges, like few other institutions, seem to have souls, especially to the people who study and teach in them. That is the way the people attached to Stratford College feel, and why they are mourning this week.

Stratford died over the week end, at the age of 122.

IT WILL NOT be the only college to fold this summer, for this is a historically rough period for colleges, particularly for small private schools. From coast to coast, hundreds of colleges which happen neither to be in a student mecca like Boston nor in a lotus land like the Rockies or the California coast, which have been turning out reasonably educated graduates for decades but happen not to have high-powered academic reputations, are in deep financial trouble.

Stratford is a case study.

For most of its life it was a finishing school, then a Methodist junior college for young ladies from the South and up and down the east coast. Its main hall sat a block up the street from the Sutherlin mansion that is this city's principal claim to historical fame, as "the last capitol of the Confederacy," and five blocks down from its rival Baptist school, Averett College. Whatever the details of its annual financial statements, it survived those years nicely, its white columns and ivied walls bespeaking tradition and gentility.

Then came the great student boom of the 1960s, product of the great baby boom of the postwar years. Stratford became a four-year college. Enrollment went up, as it did at schools all over the nation. At the same time faculty pay also went up, and ambitious building programs were begun to house the added students and cater to the varied new courses that became all the rage. Tuition and expenses had to increase sharply.

AND THEN THE BOTTOM dropped out. The wave of students crested and passed. Not only are there fewer bodies of the right age to start college this year, but college is less fashionable than it was. The end of the draft has taken the pressure off young men to go to or stay in college, and their absence on men's and co-ed campuses indirectly creates vacancies even in all-women's schools.

With costs of private schools higher and higher, most of the students who are enrolling are choosing state schools or the low-tuition, open-admissions community colleges that burgeoned during the past decade. Those prepared to pay the escalating costs at private schools find that with respectable grades they can now shop among the better colleges, instead of being grateful at any place that will take them.

Stratford was caught helpless in this crunch. After reaching a peak of 491 boarding students in 1971-72, it was down to 322 this past academic year, and early this month had only about 150 applicants for the coming fall. It needed roughly 250 boarding students to break even. The trustees finally had to face facts. They announced that the old school would close at the end of the month.

Still trying to postpone the inevitable, a group of faculty and students tried throughout last week to raise $250,000 to tide the school over into another year. They pleaded for an average $5 contribution from everyone in Danville. By their deadline only $60,000 had come in. That left the school with a $1.5 million mortgage and other obligations, and now the trustees are painfully selling off land and buildings to the hospital across the street, trying to come out even.

So this year the local demonstration schools will go without help from this quarter, the English program for Spanish-speaking students will end, the reading center must find a new home, and a long, rather attractive tradition is all over. The tolling bell sounds far beyond the Dan River Valley.

Fusselman Will Analyze Marin Grand Jury Findings

William D. Fusselman had a 38-year career in public affairs in Marin County, starting in 1922.

He served on the San Anselmo City Council, as executive director of Marvelous Marin, and for 22 years, ending in 1964, on the county board of supervisors. Since then, he has been writing about county government in his weekly column in the Independent-Journal.

Fusselman has reviewed the final report of the 1973-74 Marin County Grand Jury, and particularly the appended report of Peat Marwick and Mitchell on county government structure, in the light of his many years' experience.

He has prepared a five-part series giving his own interpretation of what needs to be done to correct the county government failings pointed out by the grand jury. The series will appear on this page next Tuesday through Saturday.

Fusselman's usual weekly column is being skipped today as he prepares his analysis of the grand jury findings. Watch for it, beginning Monday.

Tiburon's Arbiters Of Taste: Do They 'Save' Community?

Early in 1973, the City of Tiburon enacted laws requiring that every single-family home built in the city must first have individual review of its design.

The reason given by city councilmen for this intensive review was that the number of ugly $80,000 and $90,000 homes was soaring — houses without enough landscaping to stop erosion or to hide blank spots in their facades, houses with overly tall foundations and spindly decks, and homes just not considered tasteful.

One councilman noted at the time, "I had always thought that expensive homes would be tastefully built and landscaped. But we have many examples of unfortunate appearance here."

THE ARBITERS of taste in Tiburon homes are five members of the Tiburon Board of Design Review, now including two architects, a housewife, an attorney, and a retired auto designer. The recently retired chairman of the board, who has been replaced by one of the architects, was a personnel consultant.

The review process also gives a chance for irate neighbors to protest against homes they consider unsightly.

To find out how the system works, I looked through the board's minutes for the last year or so.

In June, 1973, for example, the board saved one neighborhood from what residents at the time called "a stock project house."

Twice the board rejected the plans for the home to be built by Twenteith Century Homes of San Rafael on the grounds that the two-story redwood house with a mansard roof was "too boxy."

Said the minutes: "The board considered the plans and expressed concern over the box-like appearance of the garage and its relation to other components of the project. The board expressed a feeling of noncompatibility of the structure with the general lay of the property and felt an attempt was being made to place a stock plan on the property without due regard for the building site."

In another case that month, for a home being built on Mount Tiburon, the board approved the project on the condition that the builder change from redwood plywood siding to shingle siding. No reason was given for the request.

THE MINUTES for November, 1973, give another interesting case — a single family home planned for Geldert Drive.

First the auto designer "questioned the aesthetics of the chimney being suspended in front of the house.

Then the personnel consultant "questioned the floor plan as being too similar to others in the neighborhood."

Then the housewife suggested that trees planned for the site "be placed in sets of three to five rather than scattered as shown on a landscaping plan."

I can't help but remember a remark recently made in a local meeting by a man who sits on a similar design review board in Belvedere. He said: "I've often thought I've never seen so many grown men get together so often to argue about so much trivia before in my life."

No Need To List Priorities If You Know What You Want

In a recent Sunday newspaper 10 — or was it 11? — stories used the word "priorities." Just as "relevance" was the Most Overworked Word of the '60s priorities promises to be the term-to-beat for the cliche championship of the '70s.

From the secretary of state to spokespersons of Women's Liberation to losing baseball managers, everybody talks about priorities. One must, it seems "establish" one's priorities. If only national priorities could be established, history would become a four-color poster of Utopia. If only personal priorities could be established, ecstatic happiness would be merely one's average mood.

PRIORITIES HAS become an all-purpose word that also works as a put-down in almost any direction. If a teen-ager is trying to decide how to spend the summer — bicycling from Boston to Seattle? . . . working in the local Sip-and-Slurp Shoppe? . . . going to summer school? — his or her parents are certain to clear their throats and drawl in unison: "Well, you've got to get your priorities straight."

On the other hand, if the teenager wishes to make a critique on his parents' life-style (as an over-achiever's rat race or a bad case of suburban conformity) all he or she has to say is: "I just can't agree with your priorities" — shaking the young head more in sorrow than in anger.

Priorities is a word that can be used — and is used — by everybody from clergymen preaching about the Sermon on the Mount to salesmanagers hustling a shipment of Tutti-Fruti chewing gum to the West Coast warehouse.

"Goals" and "aims" — the old terms — are value-words. Priorities can pass for a value-word (as in "Moral priorities"), but it is, above all, an efficiency-word.

THERE IS A CERTAIN ruthlessness to the very concept of priorities. After all, the word first became popular as military jargon. It carries not only the implication that first things come first but that second things must be bumped.

Is humanity the price? At any rate, priorities tend to be the rather calculating lists that people draw up when they regard life as a campaign of strategies.

Romeo didn't have to make a list of priorities, writing down Juliet's name at the head — just so he wouldn't forget. Ice-cream addicts find no need to scribble memos to themselves: "12:48 p.m. Don't forget to eat a French vanilla cone."

ONE DOESN'T give high priorities to what one loves. What you love dictates high priorities to you.

As a command from the superego to the ego, priorities are a matter of duty rather than of love. The very word can turn people into things — names on an engagement callendar: "Buy extension cord for attic light. Fix left rear tire. Have lunch with Fred."

Priorities became a fashionable word, significantly, at about the time people began to be divided into "organized" and "unorganized" types. All three words tick-tock to time-and-motion connotations.

Priorities put number (1, 1A, 1B) beside life, and little red flags marked "Urgent."

Priorities arrange everything on a schedule, including spontaneity.

People with priorities have a way of looking right through you.

Still, the real argument against priority-makers is not that they are too efficient but that they aren't efficient enough. Their top priorities almost invariably should rate second — as a means rather than an end.

PRIORITIES IS a comparative word. It deals in what comes before which. The priority-maker is a man who has decided he ought to get married and knows he prefers Hortense to Kim and Priscilla to Pru. The only trouble is he doesn't know whether he really loves any of them.

Ask a priority-maker what he considers important in life and he will tick off (1, 1A, 1B) world peace, family happiness, good job, etc., etc.

Ask him what he is living for, and he is likely to give you a blank look. He knows all the alternate routes; nobody is supposed to bother him about the destination.

The priority-maker functions (a favorite phrase of priority-makers) in all areas of life that don't require poetry or religion. But he is living proof that these areas are bigger than we think. As he frowns over his clipboards, he leaves the rest of us wondering, perhaps unfairly: If the priority-maker knew what he wanted, would he have to make all those lists in the first place?

San Francisco Landmark Closing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Southern Pacific Hospital, a landmark just east of Golden Gate Park since 1908, is closing down — a victim of inflation and new earthquake safety laws.

Officials say some 450 persons would be put out of work as a result of the hospital's shutdown.

The hospital was opened to treat SP employees. In 1963, it went public and took in private patients. It had 450 beds, but of late the patient load dwindled to a daily average of 120.

Five Are Killed

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Five occupants of an automobile died east of here yesterday when their car was struck at a railroad crossing by a Burlington Northern freight train traveling an estimated 60 miles an hour.

Soup Tradition Draws Throngs

FRANKLIN, Ill. (UPI) — Soup lovers converged on this central Illinois community early yesterday and in two hours' time snapped up 30 kettles of burgoo —a unique homemade soup containing just about anything available.

Volunteers had stirred the huge 50-gallon iron kettles suspended over wood fires throughout the night, giving the slow-cooking burgoo just the right thick, tangy consistency.

But as usual, there wasn't enough to go around at the annual Fourth of July sale. Hungry masses began lining up in cars at 4 a.m. in front of the park, where the all-night cookout was in progress.

At 6 a.m., the steaming, pumpkin-colored burgoo was pronounced finished, and by 8 a.m. an estimated 1,500 gallons were sold. The contents of another four kettles were held back to be sold by the bowl during the day.

50,000 View City Fireworks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Fifty-thousand persons last night watched the annual Fourth of July fireworks show at Candlestick Park a few hours after only 5,718 showed up there to see San Francisco down San Diego 9-2 in baseball.

There were no firecrackers sold in San Francisco this holiday season, but many youngsters seemed to have obtained them anyhow.

The fire department reported about 50 small grass fires all over town, almost all started by fireworks. There were no injuries.

Official Has Surgery

HELSINKI (UPI) — President Urho K. Kekkonen today successfully underwent an operation to stem the benign enlargement of the prostate gland, a communique issued by the Meilahti Hospital said.

DEL E. WEBB
A western empire

Del Webb, Construction Leader, Dies

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Del E. Webb, who rose from a carpenter to build a hotel and construction empire in the West, died yesterday in Rochester, Minn. He was 75.

Webb, president of the Phoenix-based Del E. Webb Corp., underwent a lung operation for cancer in March and had returned to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester for a checkup when further surgery revealed additional complications from which he died, officials said.

A native of Fresno, California and son of a sand and gravel contractor, Webb quit school as a youth when his father's business failed, and worked as a carpenter while playing semi-professional baseball on weekends.

He established a small contracting firm which had grown to a national concern by 1945 when he and the late Dan Topping bought the New York Yankees. They sold the baseball team to the Columbia Broadcasting System for $14 million in 1965.

The Webb conporation owns and and operates hotels, office buildings, gaming casinos and other porperties in Nevada, California, Arizona, Hawaii and elsewhere in the United States.

Perhaps Webb's best known development is Sun City, a retirement community launched near Phoenix in 1960 which now has a population of 32,000.

His will requested that no funeral be held but that his body be cremated and his ashes scattered over Arizona.

Surviving are his widow, Toni of Phoenix, and brother, Halmer J. Webb, North Hollywood.

Sales Drop Told By Auto Makers

DETROIT (UPI) — Sales figures dropped for the eighth straight month in June compared to year-ago figures, and the four major automakers sold 24 per cent fewer cars in the first six months this year —the worst first-half performance since 1963.

Figures released Wednesday by General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Co. showed Americans bought 3,937,666 cars in the January-June period, off 24 per cent from the period in 1973, and just 154,000 more than in the first six months of 1963.

June sales this year dropped 20.1 per cent, despite a strong finish that saw Ford come to within 2.5 per cent of last year's mark in the final third of June.

EAST TAKES

West opened the deuce of hearts, and East won with the king. East naturally returned the ten of hearts, South and West naturally played low — and dummy also played low.

Pin a medal on declarer and give West a glance of pity. He missed his big opportunity to die like a man.

It's easy to see that South had no further trouble. East had to switch, and it didn't much matter what he switched to. South could win a club (let's say), lead diamonds until he forced out the ace, and get back to dummy with the ace of hearts to cash the rest of the diamonds.

South made two spades, two clubs, one heart and four diamonds, just enough for his game contract.

WASTED OPPORTUNITY

Of course you've seen West's wasted opportunity. At the second trick West should cover the ten of hearts with the queen!

If declarer wins in dummy with the ace of hearts, there is no entry to the diamonds. If declarer refuses the trick, West leads another heart to cut communications. The defenders can hold off one diamond and develop either two clubs or two spades to defeat the contract.

It's unusual to sacrifice a queen when your partner's ten seems to be doing a good enough job, but it's better to wind up with a profit than to save a queen.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

Weapons, Ammunition Stolen From Guard Armory

COMPTON, Calif. (UPI) — Hundreds of rifles, machine guns, shotguns, grenade launchers and ammunition have been stolen from an unguarded National Guard armory here, police reported today.

Police detectives, FBI agents, and military officials who discovered the theft last night said it was not immediately known what time the break-in occurred.

The facility had been locked up Wednesday morning at 10 a.m. and military units returned at 10 p.m. last night after taking part in a Fourth of July parade.

Among the weapons stolen were 70 M60 machine guns, 80 M16 rifles, eight grenade launchers, 150 bayonets, 40 grenades, 100 riot grenades, 75 gas masks and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

Police said the thieves gained entry to the armory by smashing in a side door of the one-story stucco building. They then unscrewed bolts from security hasps to a supply room and broke the door.

Error In Total Of Fraud Charge

San Anselmo social worker Stanley Seidermann is facing Medi-Cal fraud charges of $6,300, not $63,000 as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Seidermann and Dr. Price M. Cobbs of San Francisco will face arraignment July 23 in San Francisco Municipal Court on charges of billing Medi-Cal for services rendered by Seidermann.

Regulations require that services be provided only by or under the direct supervision of a physician and the prosecution alleges that this wasn't the case.

Suspect, 18, Is Held For Kidnap

OROVILLE (UPI) — An 18-year-old suspect in the kidnap and rape of an 8-year-old Napa girl is being held for Napa County authorities.

Donald L. Clark of Oroville, was recognized by a policeman as he walked the streets of this town early yesterday.

The youngster was abducted from her home in the Napa city limits May 31. Napa police said the door of her home was unlocked and the assailant walked in, grabbed the girl and carried her out while other members of the family slept.

She was found the next morning just south of the city limits.

The original stone that marked Thomas Jefferson's grave is located at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Foundation's Goal: Build Inner Self

By JOAN LISETOR

"We all have God given gifts. If we find our own inner self and express ourselves through our talents, we can convey to others the beauty around them," said Paula Tuttle.

The San Rafael woman is a founder of the Spiritual Arts Foundation, which was founded on that premise.

The foundation has approximately 80 members, some as far away as England, Africa and Canada. Membership in Marin is between 30 and 40.

Although the foundation began last August, the idea for it began six or seven years ago.

To get her mind off the aches and pains of arthritis Mrs. Tuttle wanted to help other people. She started a medita-tion group which met in her home. Members of the group talked about religious art, their thoughts grew, and they started collecting religious art, later branching out to and literature.

THE FOUNDATION is nonsectarian, although its main goal is to develop within all people complete love of God and man.

Those foundation members who meditate meet weekly at the Tuttles' home for instruction in the art of prayer and meditation. Their discussions after meditation have led to helping others. They have provided scholarships to two young Marin musicians, cellist Jerry Le Clerc, to attend the Forest Meadows Center for Young Artists, and clarinetist Ingu Yung, to participate in the Inverness Music Festival.

So far funds have come from membership fees but the foundation plans to raise money from lectures and an art show in October and a music festival in November.

"Someday I hope to have enough money to send 20 kids to school," Mrs. Tuttle said. "And in a few years I hope to have someone donate land for a camp for young people. If you take a young person with no direction in life, with the proper teachers and aides he will find direction. If we only touched one or two a year that person would touch one or two others."

Members of the foundation are in and out of the Tuttles' spacious home for meditation groups and because they have become close friends, she said. The Tuttle family includes George Tuttle, an attorney; Pamela, 18, a student at Dominican College; George, 16, a student at San Rafael High School; and Virginia, 12, who attends Santa Venetia Middle School.

It is important for people to realize that meditation is not like a spooky seance, Mrs. Tuttle said.

"IT IS VERY emotional, not kooky," she said. "We can help people if they want it."

Other plans are for a museum to house the religious art, music and literature and establishment of a retreat center for experiencing nature and self-sufficient living.

To achieve these goals foundation members believe they must first get in touch with themselves and bring their spiritual and physical feelings into balance.

If one's motive is selfish, and one wants to build an ego, Mrs. Tuttle said, "Go buy a house or a boat."

The foundation has no gimmicks, just a lot of feeling, she said.

MRS. GEORGE TUTTLE of San Rafael is a founder of the Spiritual Arts Foundation, a group that feels people are returning to the need for spiritual values in life. One of the foundation's goals is to collect enough religious art, music and literature to open a museum. Behind Mrs. Tuttle is a mosaic by Alfonso Pardinas of San Francisco, which will be included in the collection.

Are New Women Missing Something?

STANFORD (UPI) — Highly visible women's liberationists haven't opened the doors to women's equality to any great extent, says a Stanford University psychiatric ssocial worker.

They "are out of phase with the average middle-class woman in the U.S.," said Jewelle Taylor Gibbs.

"They are not typical U.S. women," Mrs. Gibbs added. "When they go out to make a speech they do not leave behind a husband, children and household chores which must be cared for in their absence."

Patricia Ann Searcy Weds Karl Knobelauch

The 112-year old Ione Community United Methodist Church in Ione, an historical landmark, was the setting June 23 for the marriage of Patricia Ann Searcy of Ione and Karl Knobelauch of Novato.

Following the wedding the reception, a barbecue, was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Searcy, in Ione. The newlyweds are on a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

Cheryl Chance of San Mateo was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Wendy, Heidi, Triena and Alles Searcy, all of Ione.

Best man was Charles Baker, and guests were ushered to their seats by Robert Weber, Tom Crank and the bridegroom's brothers, Kent and Kris Knobelauch, all of Novato.

Patricia was graduated from Ione High School, and Karl is a graduate of Novato High School. Both attend California State University, Sacramento.

The bride is the granddaughter of Alice Winter and Thelma Searcy of North Highland. Jessie King is her great grandmother.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kase of Santa Rosa.

Women Are Subject Of Concert

The concert, sponsored by the Marin Women's News Journal, will include women's folk ballads and contemporary feminist songs.

The singer will be accompanied by Holly Tannen of Novato on the dulcimer, piano and banjo and Susie Rothfield on fiddle and guitar.

In London Miss Armstrong is a member of Ewen McColl and Peggy Seeger's Singers' Club and has sung with them on many English folk albums. She also has a solo album, "Lovely on the Water."

Check Gauge

Unless the gauge on your pressure canner is a weighted one, have it checked at the beginning of the canning season. If it is off more than four points, get a replacement.

Drop-in Center Is Proposed

A meeting to draw up a proposal for a drop-in child care center for shoppers' children at Northgate Shopping Mall will be held Tuesday at the Marin Women's Center, Young Women's Christian Association, 1618 Mission Avenue, San Rafael.

Interested women and representatives from Marin groups are invited to the 8 p.m. meeting, according to Bonnie Eisenberg of the center. An ad hoc committee for the child care center will be formed at the meeting.

Officers' Wives Name President

Virginia Peterson of Tiburon has been elected president of the Marin County Retired Officers' Wives Club.

Mrs. Peterson has been a member of the social organization for three years and has served previously as vice president. Activities for the coming year include the addition of a second gourmet club and a gardening club, as well as house and garden tours and luncheons, said Mrs. Peterson.

Mrs. Peterson, the wife of Robert W. Peterson, a former representative for investment trusts, is also a member of the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

Remove Blossoms To Pickle Cukes

When you prepare cucumbers for pickling, remove blossoms before washing the vegetables.

The blossoms, which become transparent when wet, can break down cell walls in the cucumbers and spoil them.

Remember Plant Care During A Vacation

Summer vacations always pose a watering and care problem for plant lovers. The Society of American Florists reminds us that there are several methods to assure a water supply for plants, including packaged wick waterers.

For the best method for a prized plant, check with your florist.

Four Marin Residents Win Grants

Four Marin residents have won scholarships to Convergence '74 Workshops on weaving at Mills College to be held July 22 to 26.

Winners of the California Arts Commissions scholarships are Helen Yoder of San Rafael, a student at the College of Marin Terri Kerss of Mill Valley, a student at Tamalpais High School Jane Chamberlain of Belvedere, who attends Redwood High School and Deni Schuck of Novato, a Novato High School student.

Awards of $200 were made to the recipients on the basis of weaving samples and a statement of their interests and goal. The Tamalpais Weavers Guild of Marin assisted in selection.

The workshops are a part of Convergence '74, the second biennial meeting of the Handweavers Guild of America, sponsored by the Conference of Northern California Handweavers July 18 to 21 at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco with exhibits and demonstrations of handweaving and spinning.

The Tamalpais Weavers Guild will have an exhibit of its members' weaving.

HELEN HELP US!

'Marry Before You Lose Him' Is Advice For Fearful Widow

DEAR HELEN:

You marry very young to get away from a miserable home. He turns into a husband who is a stranger - someone you fear. He tries to run you down with his car when you are five months pregnant. But you stick by him, believing he is young and scared of responsibility.

Through four more pregnancies, you keep hoping things will change, but he always manages to leave town before the birth, returning only when you're able to sleep with him again.

You work in between having babies, only to have the bills pile up. Your kids are all that keep you going.

Then, an accident, and your husband comes home a helpless cripple with a vile temper. You feel it's your duty to care for him, though your life is Hell.

You can't even cry at his funeral, eight years later. You only feel vast relief . . . and you set out to enjoy life with your children.

Then you find the man who seems totally right. The children accept him. He makes you believe in yourself. But, remembering the bad experiences, you aren't sure. You ask for a year and one half - to get to know one another, before you marry.

But his family wants the marriage right away. They pressure him. He tries to explain your point of view (though he wants an early marriage too). Finally he tires of nagging, and waiting, and leaves town.

When he comes back to see us, Helen, he says he still loves me, but he is now dating a woman "he can relax with." I'm afraid he won't be here when I finally overcome my fear of another marriage.

How can I live with this and stay sane? — FEARFUL TWO WAYS

DEAR FTW:

Why hang on to the fear of marriage when you've found a man you love? For Pete's sake, marry the guy before you lose him! You deserve happiness right now - not after a year and a half of needless waiting. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I must disagree with you about the "HCG" shots. This hormone, made from the urine of pregnant women, has helped me lose over 50 pounds . . . in four months.

I work for a doctor who gives these shots regularly to obese patients and we have had nothing but good results.

The hormone began being used in weight reduction after weight loss was observed in males using it to develop undescended testicles. — C.J.H.

DEAR C.:

All I know is what I read in medical journals provided by my doctor. I quote from one: "Successful treatment of obesity with (Human Chorionic Gonadotropin) has been claimed by A.T.W. Simeons of Italy and others, who administered the hormone daily to patients on a 500-calorie diet. Other investigators have found no difference in weight loss in HCG-treated and placebo-treated subjects. A 500-calorie-per-day diet, if maintained for several weeks, is likely to be effective without administration of the hormone." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

A final word for that "100 Per cent Male Chauvinist" who wants women to bow down and kiss his feet: My grandmother used to say, "The empty wagon makes the most noise." — GLAD HE'S NOT MY HUSBAND

Life Is A Bit Hectic For Cabinet Wife

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — "So many people have the idea that Cabinet wives dress up, stand in receiving lines, and go to parties," says Mary Emma Butz, wife of U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz. "That's part of it, but it's certainly not all of it."

For Mrs. Butz, life has always been just a little bit hectic. During Indiana days, while her husband was dean of Purdue's School of Agriculture, it was a question of bringing up their two sons, teaching Sunday school, den-mothering a Cub Scout troop, and working in the Parent-Teacher Association.

"It was not exactly a sedentary life," she recalled in an interview in her husband's office in the Department of Agriculture.

In the last few years, since her husband has been Secretary of Agriculture, the pace, if anything, has picked up. Now there is even more volunteer work plus the added official activity involved in being a Cabinet wife.

In addition to accompanying her husband on official travels, Mrs. Butz has increased the number of her own speaking engagements. She is a staunch supporter of Agriculture Department policy and insists that the price of food for the American housewife is still a bargain. The problem, she says, is just that many Americans have become so preoccupied with paying for such luxuries as two television sets and two cars that they cannot adjust to paying a little more for such basics as food.

Mrs. Butz, who grew up in a rural section of eastern North Carolina and whose voice has a soft drawl that might remind one of Lady Bird Johnson, explains that it was in this very building that she and Butz first met.

It was in the patio downstairs on a rainy evening in 1930.

The two were in town for a 4-H national camp gathering as delegates from North Carolina and Indiana and had left the array of tents on the nearby mall, where the young people were camping out, to attend an evening social function at the department.

Mrs. Butz taught home economics and biology for two years in her home county and then took off for another part of her state to work 2½ years as a county home demonstration agent for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

One area where she thinks the extension service can and should do more is in helping young people before they marry.

"I sometimes think people use better judgment or put more thought into picking out a house or an automobile than in picking out a partner for marriage . . . We seem to feel we need training for everything else but that we automatically know how to pick a partner . . . It's often a matter of chemistry rather than really thinking whether ideas, goals, backgrounds, and habits are similar."

While she is not advocating that the extension service dip into matchmaking, she said she does think that by "ministering to the whole needs of individuals" and by paying more attention to ideas, attitudes, and the commitment question, the service can act as a constructive influence.

"So many people go into marriage now with a here-and-now attitude. If it doesn't live up to my expectations in every way, we'll terminate it — if it doesn't work out, what of it? Marriages failed a generation ago as well as now but I think we went into it with a little more commitment, a feeling of we'll make it work."

While Mrs. Butz says she well understands that many women must work because of economic necessity, she believes it is important in the 1970s that the woman who has chosen to devote her time to bringing up her family not be made to feel "guilty" or "stupid."

"I can think of nothing more important than making a happy home where people can come for inspiration and help and renewal, and where children can grow up to realize their full potential," she explained.

In her own case, Mrs. Butz enjoyed her brief career before marriage but "I never had any desire to do it again."

The Butzes have spent most of their married life in Indiana. Their two sons were brought up there. William is now a research economist with the Rand Corp. in California and the father of Michael, the Butz's three-year-old grandchild. Their other son, Tom, still a bachelor, is working on his PhD in clinical psychology from Indiana University.

While she considers her life as a Cabinet wife as busy as she's ever experienced it, she stressed, "I've always had a busy life. It's just that now the mix is slightly different, with a great deal of volunteer work to do."

ON BEING BLACK

Mormon's 'Peculiar' Doctrine

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate

SALT LAKE CITY — Dear Ms. Haggerty: I read your column in Los Angeles regularly, and I feel your thoughts on race relations are valuable for both black and white. But one question continues to bother me:

What on earth is Sandra Haggerty doing in Salt Lake City, population: 50 per cent Mormon? The Mormon Church does not welcome black people as members and will not admit black men to the priesthood. Are you in Salt Lake on some sort of racial "mission"? How have you been received? How many blacks live there today? What is the attitude of black people toward the Mormon Church?

Response: Even though the Mormon Church, or Latter-Day Saints, is a minority religion in the United States, there is great interest in its practices. At one time it was persecuted for its doctrine-dictated practice of polygamy. Today, what makes the LDS church "peculiar" among American religions is that portion of its doctrine which is considered by many to be racist.

Black males may not hold the priesthood, a coveted and respected position offered to all other males. One of the explanations for this practice is that black skin is a curse.

An estimated 11,000 blacks live in Utah, with 4,000 residing in Salt Lake City and 7,000 in Ogden — the second-largest city in the state. The largest minority group in the state is Chicano.

CONTRARY TO general belief, blacks are not precluded from membership in the Mormon Church, and a number of black Mormons believe "this is the place" and the Mormon way is "the" way. The black Mormons I've talked with believe full membership in the church through the priesthood is coming via revelation.

Few know that at one time a black held the priesthood. Elija Able was baptized into the Mormon Church in 1832. Shortly thereafter, he was ordained an elder. He went on several missions for the church and in 1884 "died in full faith of the Gospel."

The non-Mormon, longtime, black residents of Salt Lake City see the Mormons as being no different from the Catholics, Presbyterians and so forth. Many young blacks, college students particularly, coming into the area for the first time consider the Mormon Church racist.

Although I have met a few Mormons who attempt to use the religious stance to justify outright racist attitudes and actions, others are somewhat embarrassed by that portion of the doctrine and feel it should be reversed. Many young Mormons have expressed a desire for the church to "keep up with the times and conditions of our society."

I definitely am not here on a racial "mission," even though a number of my students at the University of Utah are missionaries for the LDS. I have not felt the need to deal with people's religious beliefs — in Utah or anywhere else in the world.

Finally, I live in Salt Lake City for selfish reasons. The crime rate is comparatively low, the air is arid and less polluted and, best of all, I'm 25 minutes away from some of the world's best ski slopes, where I feel a communion with my nonsectarian God.

Freezing Is Better Than Heat Canning

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Freezing generally retains more nutrients than home canning does, says Walter A. Maclinn, acting director of the Rutgers University College Experiment Station.

That's because there's less cooking, and less loss of vitamins and minerals into the liquid that most canned foods include.

Maclinn said thawed and refrozen foods lose quality and can spoil, but the chance of botulism is almost nil in frozen foods because there is no vacuum.

He added that there is no foolproof way to tell if canned food is safe to eat. Dangerous contamination, including deadly botulism, sometimes is both invisible and tasteless.

He recommended reboiling for specific times any home-canned low-acid food-meat, poultry, fish and vegetables — before tasting. A single taste, in rare but recorded cases, has been fatal.

Most fruits are safe from botulism contamination but can spoil and cause other types of food poisoning if they are packed with too little sugar or at too low a temperature. Maclinn said most fruits are more acid than most vegetables, but much of the tartness is masked by their natural sweetness.

Canning Tip

Use a lint-free towel to wipe the edges of canning jars before sealing, and keep turning the towel to avoid redepositing food particles that could prevent a safe seal. Do not use cleaning tissues or other linty paper.

Acid Helpful

Use a soft brush to wash cucumbers and don t scrub them too hard. Acid left on the skin is useful in pickling.

Pope Fills Vacancies On Academy

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has appointed six scholars from three continents today to vacant seats on the Pontifical Academy of Sciences, one of the world's most distinguished scientific bodies.

The appointees, of whom three are Nobel prize winners, included three Americans, one Briton, one Nigerian and one Frenchman. The Pope appointed them yesterday to the 70-member academy at the recommendation of its members.

The new academicians are:

Severo Ochoa, professor of biochemistry at the New York University school of medicine and winner of the 1959 Nobel prize for medicine. Born in Luarca, Spain, in 1905, he went to the United States in 1941 and became naturalized in 1956. He is best known for synthetically producing a nucleic acid, one of the cornerstones of genetics.

Marshall W. Nirenberg, head of the biochemical genetics department of the National Heart Institute in Bethesda, Maryland, and 1968 Nobel medicine prize winner. The 47-year-old New Yorker is an authority on the genetic code transmitted by nucleic acids.

Rita Levi Montalcini, a professor of biology at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri, and a member of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences. Born in Turin, Italy, she immigrated to the United States in 1947 and later took up citizenship. She is best known for her research of a nervous system growth factor, which she isolated in smake poison and rat glands.

Thomas Adeoye Lambo, vice director general of the World Health Organization. The 51-year-old Nigerian is an expert on mental health and on scientific problems in developing countries.

George Porter, professor of physicial chemistry at Sheffield University, England, and 1967 Nobel chemistry prize winner. Porter, 53, is an authority on photochemical reactions, chemical changes brought about by light or other rays.

Jerome Lejeune, professor of general genetics at the University of Paris and a member of the Academies des Sciences. Lejeune, 48, is an expert on the connection between alterations of chromosomes and such conditions as mongolism.

Protest Ends In Whooping Party

CLARKSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — A cattle drive through town that was supposed to show the serious economic plight of ranchers turned into a whooping, hollering show that attracted 3,000 persons.

"This is the largest crowd we've had in some time in Clarksville," said Bob Harvey, 38, one of the cattle raisers who organized the affair Wednesday.

The cattlemen drove their animals two miles from a roping area, through town and out to an auction barn. They then served free barbecue — 1,300 pounds of beef, beans and bread.

Harvey, who runs a 4,000-acre ranch, said he has lost $250,000 in the past nine months because of depressed cattle prices. He said the low prices could send 5 per cent of the cattle raisers into bankruptcy.

Ticket Toter Takes Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Elaine Schumacher, 21, Rapid City, S. D., is the queen of the nation's parking meter maids.

Miss Schumacher won the honor Wednesday at the International Municipal Parking Congress convention.

Her prize: a gold-plated parking meter filled with $1,000 in rare coins and $200 for a new wardrobe.

Traffic Deaths At Record Low

CHICAGO (UPI) — The rate of traffic deaths in the first five months of 1974 was the lowest since records have been kept, the National Safety Council says.

Traffic deaths for the first five months totaled 16,270 compared with 21,360 for the same period in 1973, a 24 per cent drop.

Projecting the figure to an annual rate, the NSC said the death rate was 3.4 traffic deaths per 100 million vehicle miles traveled —a record low.

'WAITING FOR GODOT'

William Spear of Larkspur and Mark Schwarz of Ross rehearse — with little effort or action — a scene from Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot," which will be staged beginning next week by the College of Marin Summer Theater Workshop. They portray two tramps who wait each night on a lonely country road for a mysterious person whom they know only as Godot. The play will be presented next Thursday, Friday and July 13, 14, 18, 21, 24 and 25 at 8 p.m. in the college's studio theater.

Lead-Free Gas Prices Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lead-free gasoline, required at large service stations starting this month, may be sold at no more than one cent per gallon higher than the dealer's regular gasoline, at least temporarily, the Federal Energy Administration has ruled.

The FEA originally proposed to allow sales of lead-free gasoline at the price of premium grade.

Regular gasoline currently averages about 55.1 cents per gallon, the FEA said, so lead-free gasoline can be sold at the pump for an average of 56.1 cents per gallon, some 2.6 cents less than the average price of premium.

The FEA noted, however, that gasoline prices may vary considerably from these averages in different parts of the nation. An FEA spokesman said the one-cent add-on for unleaded gasoline would take effect immediately and remain in effect at least through this month.

But FEA said it was still analyzing the cost of lead-free gasoline and may revise the authorized price "in either direction, depending on the results."

Meanwhile, FEA Administrator John C. Sawhill estimated that Venezuela's new price increase on crude oil would raise gasoline prices in the United States less than one cent per gallon on the average.

Sawhill said Venezuela was, in effect, adding about 20 cents per barrel to the cost of its crude oil.

Dear Counselor:
We're moving and are ready to sell our home. Can you tell us what the advantages are in listing our home with a Red Carpet Office, rather than with "brand x"? — Mr. & Mrs. C.M.

EVERYBODY LOVES A PARADE

Bocce, the Corte Madera Fire Department's three-month-old Dalmatian mascot, peers through the cab of a city fire rig during Independence Day festivities. Corte Madera officials estimated up to 30,000 residents convened yesterday for the annual Larkspur-Corte Madera Fourth of July parade. (See another picture, page 1.)

PIPERS — Spectators line the street as the Prince Charles Pipe Band marches past the Corte Madera Recreation Center. The popular marching unit provided a musical touch to yesterday's Fourth of July festivities in Corte Madera and Larkspur.

Ricocheting Plastic Shells Wound Two Quentin Inmates

Two San Quentin inmates were wounded yesterday by ricocheting plastic shotgun shells fired by a guard attempting to break up a fight in the prison's exercise yard.

Terry Shipley, 26, was hit in the right eye and Roberto Romero, 26, was struck above the left hip.

Shipley underwent surgery yesterday at Marin General Hospital, then was returned to the prison hospital. William D. Nyberg, prison information officer, said it was not known whether he will lose the sight in the injured eye.

Romero was reported in good condition today at the prison hospital.

A guard, trying to break up a fight, fired two shots into the ground which bounced up and hit Shipley and Romero, according to Nyberg.

Nyberg said 16 prisoners were exercising in the yard at 11:50 a.m. when a fight broke out. A correctional officer yelled at them to stop, blew his whistle, then fired a warning shot into the air, but the fight continued. So the officer fired into the ground at the prisoners' feet, Nyberg said.

The incident involved prisoners of a "segregation unit," for inmates who have provided disciplinary problems elsewhere in the prison.

Youth Injured By Firecracker

A 15-year-old San Rafael youth was seriously injured yesterday when a homemade firecracker exploded in his hand.

Derek P. Knell of 11 Peacock Lane was reported in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital with severe injuries to his right hand.

San Rafael police said the youth's hand required surgery after a device made from a cardboard tube and gun powder exploded at about 10 p.m. last night.

HAPPINESS — While some believe happiness to be a warm puppy or a big parade, this parade participant has a different view. The placard-bearing motorcyclist was one of dozens who marched or rode in yesterday's parade that wound from Doherty Drive in Larkspur to the Corte Madera recreation center.

JOHN W. CARD
Murder suspect

Suspect In Triple Killing Is Captured

TRUCKEE (UPI) — John W. Card, suspected of killing three persons and kidnaping three others, was arrested yesterday by FBI agents staking out a holiday flea market.

Agents said Card, a burly 6-foot-2 woodcutter, was captured without a struggle. He was armed with a .45-caliber pistol and was carrying more than $3,000 in cash, they said.

A .30-caliber hunting rifle was found in his car, they said.

Card, 26, of Willows, was suspected of killing veterinarian C. B. Griffiths, his wife and teen-aged daughter in that Sacramento Valley town eight days ago.

Earlier, a widow and her two children, who allegedly had been held hostage by Card, freed themselves after being chained to a tree at a campsite in the Sierra foothills near Colusa, Calif., 50 miles north of Sacramento.

Kay Skillin, 34, and her children, Wesley, 13, and Debbie, 12, were kidnaped last Saturday from their ranch near Willows.

They told police they were treated well as they traveled with their abductor to Utah and Nevada, spending the nights in motels or in a camper pickup truck along the edge of the highway.

Deputies from three counties staked out the Truckee area, near the Nevada border, most of the day.

They did not say how they learned Card would be in town. The 240-pound former high school football tackle was arrested at the market, which was part of July 4 festivities.

Investigators said that Mrs. Griffiths was shot to death last Friday after her husband and and daughter were killed near their ranch. She earlier had been forced to cash two checks totaling $5,250 at a bank and a grocery store.

The Glenn County district attorney said Card was to be charged with murder and kidnaping. No bail was set.

Fair Trade? Chevrolet For Picture

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — Meetings of state traditionally are occasions for exchanging gifts, and here's what the Nixons and the Brezhnevs gave each other in the course of the recent Moscow summit meetings.

A White House spokesman said yesterday President Nixon got a painting of Moscow by night, and Mrs. Nixon was given a set of amber jewelry in a gold setting from their Russian hosts.

Helen McCain Smith, Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, said Soviet Communist party General Secretary and Mrs. Leonid Brezhnev gave the Nixons several other gifts that were representative of the different Soviet republics.

These included a lace tablecloth, a vase painted with scenes of Moscow and a box encrusted with semiprecious jewels for Mrs. Nixon.

The President gave car buff Brezhnev a blue Chevrolet Monte Carlo sports car, donated by General Motors. The Nixons also presented the Kremlin leader and his wife a set of plates depicting scenes from Winslow Homer paintings and a silver epergne with crystal bowls.

Beaches Closed

ROME (UPI) — Areas of beach near La Spezia, on the Tyrrhenian Sea, and Pescara, on the Adriatic, have been closed because of sea pollution, health officials said yesterday.

BARGAINS TO CONTROVERSY

Reporter's Soviet Trip Notes

MOSCOW (UPI) — White House correspondents are no different from other tourists when it comes to traveling to new places. They like to shop.

The best bargain they found in Yalta were balalaikas that sold for seven dollars, too good a bargain to resist. Some 20 correspondents bought the Russian musical instruments and took them home.

There also was a run on the Red Army belt buckles inscribed with the hammer and sickle.

White House efforts to avoid a "Yalta dateline and memories of the Yalta Conference, which came to be known in the lexicon of some Republicans during the fifties, including President Nixon, as the "Sell-out conference, have been to no avail.

White House press aides had been counting on reporters to use "Oreanda as a dateline, but the village name was ignored and the name of the area —Yalta —was used.

When the Soviet Politburo meets in Moscow, it is kept secret.

After Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev met for some seven hours with Nixon, he summoned members of the Politburo for "discussions, according to a Soviet official. But it took two days to confirm that such a meeting took place.

When the Soviet State Radio and Television Committee decided to pull the plug on the three major American television networks, it did not bargain for a young engineer who learned how to outmaneuver it.

The committee had forewarned the networks that any word not about President Nixons summit talks would be discontinued immediately.

The Russians blacked out programs dealing with the protest of Soviet scientist Andrei D. Sakharov.

To keep the state radio and TV committee from wiping out radio news accounts for the same reason, a young man began buttering up the Russian engineers by buying them shots of vodka and going into prolonged toasts about American-Soviet friendship.

He managed to keep the mood convivial while network broadcasters were telling on radio the story of the TV blackout. And he confesses he became a little tipsy in his company's behalf.

Some 20 members of the press corps had signed up to cover Pat Nixon at a farmers market, her last personal public appearance in the USSR, but it all was called off.

Mrs. Anatoly Dobrynin, wife of the Soviet ambassador to Washington, passed the word to the First Lady that authorities would prefer she not mingle with the independent farmers, who each own about an acre of land, known as "household plots and bring their produce to the market to sell. Mrs. Nixon took the hint.

Defense Secretary James Schlesinger looms as the political ogre to the Russian ruling class these days. They feel that since he took over the leadership of Pentagon, the line has been hardening aginst detente. They interpret Schlesingers remarks about the possibility of conducting a limited war as being an "acceptable war.

The Presidents manservant Manolo Sanchez, always can be counted on to convey the human side of his boss, sometimes to the irritation of other White House aides. Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler finally recaptured control of his own guided tour of Nixons Kremlin suite after Sanchez enthralled reporters with news about the Russian "food taster in the kitchen and the fact that Nixon smokes a pipe after lunch and after dinner. Ziegler, with little subtlety, told Sanchez that it was his briefing.

A WELCOME COMPARISON

Occasionally we are fortunate enough to get a home such as this. Outstanding area, close to schools and shopping. Large lot with plenty of parking, and most important, an extra large, immaculate luxury home that can not be duplicated. Starting with the immense family room with rock fireplace, cathedral ceilings, ceramic tile floor, wormwood paneling (this room is unbelievable), large living room with another rock fireplace, 3 large bdrms., 2 baths, large modern kitchen, separate utility room and 2 car garage. We could go on and on with all the features, but see for yourself. This can not be duplicated at $53,950.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Five Ways To Treat Baldness, But Is It Really Worth It All?

Mrs. H. W. writes: "My 30-year-old husband is going bald and has decided to do something about it. If you were in his shoes, what would you do?"

What would I do?

Probably nothing, because baldness in men is so common some of my firends consider it normal. In their opinion, a full head of hair is abnormal. On the other hand, baldness ages a man. This may be advantageous to the young banker, lawyer, or surgeon. However, this is not the case when the young baldy is an actor, TV announcer, or politician. The same applies to the older man who is determined to look younger.

THERE ARE several ways bald areas can be covered. A wig or hairpiece is the simplest. Oddly, wigs are not too popular among men. As a result, hairpieces are not as plentiful and there are not too many styles from which to choose. In my opinion, this is the best and easiest way to solve the problem of baldness.

Transplantation is another good method because it utilizes the person's own hair. Tufts of hair follicles are removed from the sides and back of the head and moved to sparse areas.

The procedure is expensive since only a few tufts can be done at one time and the total cost may exceed $2,000. In addition, several months elapse before the follicles "take." But it is worth considering because it lasts a lifetime.

HAIR IMPLANTS also are costly. In this procedure, a coated wire or surgical suture is sewn into the scalp. The wire forms loops above the skin and a hairpiece or tufts of hair are attached to the loops. Physicians do the sewing, but a trained technician attaches the hairs or hairpiece. With a little luck, the bald area is covered within a few weeks. But complications also may occur. Implanted wires could induce infection and residual scarring. Occasionally, implanted sutures are rejected.

Hair weaving is a fourth method. Hairpieces or tufts are sewn, knotted, or cemented into existing hair. The advantages are the same as with hair implantation.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, in care of c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

NIBBLING

G. T. writes: Some doctors say that nibbling doesn't cause overweight. How much nibbling is allowed and what about the regular meals?

REPLY

Very little, if you expect to eat regular meals too. The relationship between nibbling and obesity stems from the observation that humans and laboratory animals may not gain as much weight when they eat several small snacks during the day, rather than two or three large meals, even though the same number of calories are consumed. But, forget it, if your "little meals" are high in calories.

LOST IN DREAMS

S. T. writes: I have a recurring nightmare in which I can't find my way home. Does this mean something is wrong?

REPLY

No. You may have a conscious or an unconscious fear of not being able to find your way home. Or, perhaps, you have a fear of being lost.

TRACHEITIS

H. A. writes: What is tracheitis?

REPLY

Inflammation of the windpipe (trachea). This condition is halfway between a sore throat and bronchitis. The most common symptom is a dry, hacking cough. The condition is aggravated by taking a deep breath, smoking, talking, or laughing.

PRICKLING SENSATION

A. G. writes: What is cutaneous paresthesia?

REPLY

Cutaneous refers to the skin and paresthesia means an abnormal sensation such as burning, tingling, or numbness. These terms describe a disorder involving nerve tissue which usually leads to numbness or tingling of the skin.

Arson Charge Filed

HOUSTON (UPI) — Arson charges have been filed against David Joseph Speer for the burning of the 19th Century Dixie Hotel, but morgue workers studied the remains today of three men killed in that fire in hopes of charging Speer with murder.

Bayshore Wreck In Dense Fog Injures Six

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Six persons were injured yesterday in a flaming collision on the fog-shrouded Bayshore Freeway in which six cars caught fire.

Injured were Stephen Reese, 24, Ray Johnson, 22, and Donald McCune, 21, all of San Francisco; Dianna Cohn, 24, Daly City and Melinda Johnson, 16, and Willard Holland, 20, both of East Palo Alto.

Reese, who suffered third degree burns on the hands and legs, was the most seriously injured.

Two cars were involved in a rear-end collision and the third crashed into those vehicles. All three cars burst into flames.

Five-Man Police Force Is Fired

HURON (UPI) — This Fresno County farming community has ended a controversy over alleged police brutality and graft by firing the chief of police and his four-man force.

Councilman Lupe Silva said yesterday the district attorney's office had been investigating charges of brutality and theft of bail money on the force for several months.

At a meeting Wednesday night, the council fired Chief Clarence Enos, Sgt. Ruben Urias, and patrolmen Richard Gonzales, Pete Lopez and Carl Perez. They were given 10 days to appeal their dismissals and the right to apply to a reorganized department.

The council asked the Fresno County Sheriff's Department to take over law enforcement in the community until a new force could be hired.

KENNEDY LIBRARY — New design proposals for the John F. Kennedy Library feature subtle scale in a sensitive setting in an attempt to ease public outcry over previous proposals. It is a far cry from the 85-foot-high truncated pyramid of glass which was the focus of original proposals.

New Library Design Envokes Kennedy's Environmental Call

By WILLIAM MARLIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The new design for the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library evokes President Kennedy's own call, 11 years ago, for an environment of "balance and grace."

The subtle scale and sensitive setting of this conception by world-famed architect I. M. Pei and his associate Ted Muchow soften the controversy over the possible effect of the library on the historic ambiance of Cambridge and Harvard University. It delineates a presence, not an imposition, on the 12-acre Charles River site now occupied by an abandoned streetcar repair facility.

In doing this, the design reflects the community desire for a modest rather than monumental work.

The original 1973 scheme, though visually stunning, was severely questioned by the community. A truncated pyramid of glass 85 feet high would have been its focus — forming a sun-drenched pavilion, containing educational exhibits on two levels, oriented toward the Charles.

In the present solution, the 25,000-square foot library, triangular in plan, will contain both exhibition and archival facilities in a serene three-story building occupying only two-thirds of an acre.

The School of Government and the Institute of Politics will be housed to the north in a self-contained structure, also triangular in plan, to be built in two stages. It will occupy two acres.

Visitors will enter the library from Commonwealth Park by way of a gradual stair of stately proportion. The reception space is designed to be simple and arresting. A lense-like skylight will illuminate it.

A generous curving wall will bear a thematic tapestry. Set against a panoramic view of the Charles and those delicate sycamores to the south will be a small, solitary sculpture of the late President.

Visitors will proceed through two levels, illuminated by a second skylight to encounter respectively a chronology of his earlier years; an exhibition of how Americans and foreigners, in all walks of life, viewed him; another identifying the political steps to the White House; and one dramatizing the complexities and contradictions, the agonies and the ecstasies, of the presidential role.

Following these, the minute-by-minute demands of the President's working day will be unfolded. Then will come an exhibition evoking some of his major decisions in domestic and foreign policy. Toward the end of the 45-to-60-minute experience, visitors will be absorbed in several life-size photographs of Mr. Kennedy both as statesman and as private man. Written and oral statements, with marginal pictorial support, will quickly deal with the matter of the tragic events at Dallas in 1963.

Striking With Their Cleats On

The great schedule of sports says that on July 26 in Chicago there will be a football game between the champions of all the world, the Miami Dolphins, and a group of young men known as all-stars. These young men were in college last year but now they are rookies who hope to make their living in the National Football League.

The great schedule also says that on or about Aug. 3 the teams of the NFL will begin what is known as the exhibition schedule leading up to a Sept. 15 regular season start.

It seems, however, the hirelings are dissatisfied with the ways of pro football and want changes. A lot of changes. They want changes so badly they have decided, with the prodding of Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, to put placards on their shoulders and march in a picket line.

THE FIRST SUCH PICKET line is in San Diego where the Chargers have opened training camp for the rookies. The veterans are staying outside the gates. (See strike story, page 39.)

Football s big strike came about when the club owners would not agree to the 57 demands made by the players. No compromise could be reached in negotiations between owners and players and so the strike came. There is a possibility the strike will cause some canceling of exhibition games if it continues.

So far, the Dolphins are the only players who are complaining in force about the strike. But they have a strong reason. If things arent settled before July 26 and they dont play in the exhibition against the college all-stars, they will be out $2,000 to $5,000 per man. In that game, you see, the players earn a fee equal to their pay for a regular season game. According to wire reports, many of the Dolphins are expressing the feeling that some of the demands being made are ridiculous. Its true, some are.

The first demand on the list of 57 presented to the owners is: "Elimination of the Rozelle Rule.

THAT WOULD GIVE the players the freedom they want. The Rozelle Rule is the main reason clubs are hesitant about signing players who play out their options with other teams in the NFL. When such a signing occurs, the team which signs the disgruntled player must compensate the team from where he came. Rozelle steps in at that time and forces the team to give up one of its star players or future draft choices. Because of this, club owners think twice before signing men who have played out their options.

Further down the list of demands, the players want training camp curfews lifted and set the maximum on field training time to three hours per day. Some of these demands, obviously, arent expected to be met. The elimination of the Rozelle Rule is not one of them.

And, of course, the players want more money. For exhibition games, they seek $500 for the first game, $1,500 for playing the second game, and on up the line until its $3,000 for playing in the teams sixth exhibition game. If a player were to toil in a seventh exhibition game it would be worth a minimum of $7,000, above and beyond his regular salary.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS, like so many others in all walks of life, are displaying the attitude that its best to earn all the money today, because tomorrow may never come.

The owners say they arent making as much money as the players suspect, and it would pinch them to raise minimum salaries and such. If more money is going to be paid the players, its certain that ticket prices are going to go up. They are already up to $10 apiece in Los Angeles and $8.50 in most other areas.

It all comes down to the same thing. Joe Fan will be the one paying the higher ticket prices. There will come a time when the price for football is unbearable. Football is trying hard to price itself out of the market.

ANGELS' WILLIAMS UNHAPPY

A's Rudi Enjoys Hitting In Anaheim's Ballpark

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Joe Rudi, who led the Oakland A's to a four-game series sweep over his former manager's new club, would like to begin playing all his home games in Anaheim Stadium.

But that doesn't mean he wants to join Dick Williams in a California Angels' uniform.

"I like this ballpark and I love to play in Anaheim," Rudi said, "but that doesn't mean I want to be traded to them. I just wish we could move our whole team here."

For all practical purposes, during the last four games the A's have virtually owned Anaheim Stadium.

They completed the sweep last night with four unearned runs and Rudi's two-run homer to beat California 9-4, It was the A's eighth win in a row over California, the last four of which have prevented Williams from enjoying his first win as the new skipper of the Angels.

"If we went down one more notch, we'd be in the minor leagues," said Williams, as California sank to 14 games behind the American League West-leading A's.

Rudi collected four hits in five trips to the plate last night and was eight for 15 for the series.

Oakland starter Vida Blue, 8-8, had a perfect game going for 5 2-3 innings before Sandy Alomar took first base on a wild pitch third strike and Winston Llenas homered.

But he easily went the distance, giving up only five hits and striking out 11.

"Blue has been throwing the ball awfully good lately," A's Manager Alvin Dark said. "He could easily have four more wins."

"I'm finding out more every day," Williams said. "I hope the fans will bear with us. I still have a lot to learn about this club. We have some good young players who are going to be around a long time."

The Angels host Cleveland in the opening game of a three-game series tonight, while Oakland returns home to entertain Baltimore.

Chris Whips Olga For Women's Title

Connors, Rosewall Advance

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. became the youngest girl in 22 years to win the women s singles of the Wimbledon tennis championships today when she overwhelmed Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union, the first Russian to reach the finals, 6-0, 6-4.

Meanwhile, Ken Rosewall of Australia, two sets down and one point away from defeat came back in one of the great rallies of Wimbledon history today to beat Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C. and enter the finals of the men's singles 6-8, 4-6, 9-8, 6-1, 6-3.

Rosewall, a few months short of 40, and the oldest man in the singles will meet 21-year-old Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill. tomorrow. Connors beat Dick Stockton of Port Washington, N.Y. 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

The 19-year-old second seed and the well-built Russian physical education teacher are friends and doubles partners but no one could prove it by what went on in center court before the eyes of 15,000 spectators, including several members of the royal family, though they kissed when the match was over.

Chris was merciless in the brisk first set, driving Olga from side to side of the court with punishing forehands and backhands. And when Morozova came up to the net she was passed or lobbed back as an obstacle to Miss Evert s ambition to be the first woman since Maureen Connolly in 1954 to win the Italian, French and Wimbledon crowns.

Miss Evert s victory earned her $16,800. Miss Morozova technically won $9600 but only technically since she gets only $16 a day pocket money plus all her expenses and hands over her winnings to the Russian sports federation.

The crowd, which included Princess Margaret and the Duke of Kent, had little to cheer in what was perhaps the most one-sided final since Doris Hart beat Shirley Fry, 6-1, 6-0 in 1951, but for Chris it was a sweet moment following her straight set loss to Billie Jean King in last years final.

WINNING FORM — Chris Evert showed her form yesterday as she hit a forehand return against Kerry Melville in a 6-2, 6-3 semi-final Wimbledon tennis victory. Today, Chris beat Russian Olga Morozova, 6-0, 6-4, in the championship match. (UPI Telephoto)

Miss Morozova, who lost to Chris in the French final, said before the match she hoped to do better on a grass surface, but she never really got into the game, although she did win one more game.

Against power hitters like Mrs. King and Britain s Virginia Wade, Miss Morozova was able to play serve and volley, but Chris never let her dictate the terms and kept her in the back court for most of the 58-minute match.

All the drama of the first set was packed into the 10-minute first game which saw Chris save three break points before finally holding service after the seventh deuce.

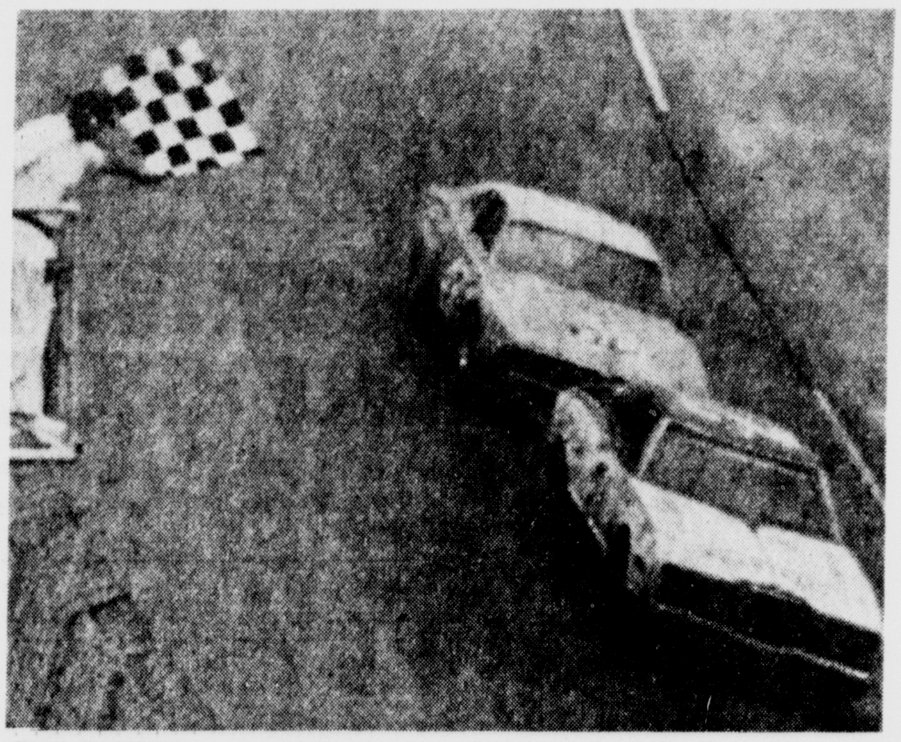
Jimmy Connors, who earlier qualified for the men's singles final against Ken Rosewall, arrived with the score 5-0 and could not get a seat. He stood by a post in the players' enclosure, munched on a sandwich and watched his fiancee continue her destruction of the Russian. Jeane Evert stood by his side along with Pancho Segura, their coach.

Olga, who was undecided whether to stay back or come to the net, elected to attack in the second set and her tactics appeared correct when she broke Chris for 2-1. But Chris broke back immediately and the girls again exchanged service games in the sixth and seventh games.

Both then held to 30 and Olga went to 40-love in the 10th game and appeared comfortable. Once again the roof was about to fall in.

A forehand pass, a winner off a first service and a volleying error by Olga made it deuce. Olga now hit a backhand long and finished the match with a doublefault. It was over.

The crowd cheered politely but gave Chris a big ovation when she received the championship plate from the Duke of Kent. The sun even came out as the girls retired to the locker room.



THE WINNER — David Pearson took the checkered flag yesterday to win the Firecracker 400 by a car length over runnerup Richard Petty in one of the closest finishes ever at the Daytona International Speedway in Daytona Beach, Fla. (UPI Telephoto)

WITH FIRECRACKER RUNNERUP PETTY

Pearson's Strategy Stirs Flap

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Roaring into the final lap of the Firecracker 400, David Pearson took his foot completely off the throttle of his Mercury, allowing a startled Richard Petty, who was riding right on his tail, to "slingshot" past into the lead.

The maneuver apparently rattled Petty, the Randleman, N.C., racing millionaire. "It's just not like David to do a trick like that," said an angry Petty after the race.

But the trick succeeded and Pearson rode Petty's bumper into the final turn, cut to the inside and passed Petty's slower Dodge just 1,000 yards from the finish line to win his fourth Firecracker at Daytona International Speedway yesterday.

Pearson and Petty sparred verbally in the post-race news conference, Petty claiming that the trick endangered both drivers' lives and Pearson maintaining he did what he had to do to win.

"I let him go by," said Pearson. "I knew if he was running second I could draft him."

Pearson recalled how Petty tried to cut him off in the last 1,000 yards, forcing Pearson almost onto the infield grass as the Spartanburg, S.C., driver shot past Petty to win by three-quarters of a car length.

Pearson picked up $18,100 for his 27th superspeedway victory on the Grand National tour for NASCAR. His win broke the record of three victories at the July 4th race held by the late Glenn "Fireball" Roberts, who died 10 years ago.

Petty won $10,925 for second place, the third straight year he has been the runnerup at this racewhich he has never won. But Petty has won four times in the February Daytona 500.

Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., and Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., finished in a dead heat for third place. The speedway photo finish camera, which shoots about 300 frames per second, showed Baker's Ford and Yarborough's Chevrolet exactly even crossing the finish line.

Race officials called it a draw and awarded $6,087 to Yarborough and $5,912 to Baker, who is returning to NASCAR racing after a long hiatus.

Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., copped sixth place followed by Lennie Pond, Petersburg, Va., Jackie Rogers, Wilmington, N.C., David Sisco, Nashville, Tenn., and Cecil Gordon, Horseshoe, N.C. All five drove Chevrolets.

The average speed for the race was 138.302 miles per hour.

Giants' Interim Manager May Straighten Out Things

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It took a few games to do it, but interim manager Wes Westrum seems to have things straightened out with the San Francisco Giants.

Tom Bradley won his first game in a month and Ed Goodson and Gary Matthews hit homers to give the Giants a 9-2 victory over the San Diego Padres yesterday afternoon.

"Bradley helped himself and the club," Westrum said. "He gave us a complete game when we needed it."

Bradley had been out with a sore shoulder for more than two weeks and the victory was his first in exactly a month.

"If we hadn't scored the five runs in the seventh inning, I was going to take him out," Westrum said. "But with the big lead I thought the complete game would help him."

Bradley said he tired in the late innings, but still was throwing the ball where he wanted and without pain.

"In the last few games, my arm hurt and I was letting it bother me. This time I had a good fast ball and got the ball where I wanted."

Bradley now has seven victories for the year to share the club lead with Mike Caldwell.

The only bad pitches he made were home run balls to Willie McCovey and John Grubb.

McCovey hit a changeup into the right field stands.

"I tried to get him with slow pitches. I threw him three in a row and he hit the third one out," Bradley said.

"Some pitchers never learn," McCovey said. "I hit a grand-slam homer on a changeup by Bradley the first time he pitched against us."

The Giants got a two-run homer by Matthews to break a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning and Goodson hit a three-run shot to highlight the five-run seventh.

The victory was the Giants' second straight, the first time they have put together back-to-back wins in almost a month.

They last did it on June 6 and 7.

The Giants open a six-game road trip in New York tonight with Jim Barr (4-4) pitching

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Course Pays Off For Blyleven

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Bert Blylevens new course in self-motivation seems to be returning some quick dividends.

Blyleven, who has been struggling this season after posting a 20-victory campaign a year ago, has enrolled in a course that is supposed to teach you to relax and enjoy your work more, something the 23-year-old righthander of the Minnesota Twins has had difficulty doing.

He has attended only two classes thus far, but hes apparently done his homework well because his latest pitching effort turned in last night was by far his best of the season...although it did test his patience to the limit.

Blyleven came through with the third one-hitter of his career when he pitched the Twins to a 3-1 victory over the Texas Rangers, but it took a dramatic three-run rally in the last of the ninth to save Blyleven from yet another frustrating loss.

The Twins youngster, who had lost two 1-0 games earlier this year and had dropped 10 of his first 16 decisions, allowed only a third-inning homer to Toby Harrah through nine innings, but saw himself trailing 1-0 entering the last of the ninth as his teammates struggled helplessly against Jim Bibby.

The Twins, however, got a big break to start their half of the ninth when Bibby, who allowed only four hits over the first eight innings, issued a leadoff walk to Tony Oliva and was replaced by Steve Foucault. Steve Braun greeted Foucalt with a single, sending pinch-runner Jerry Terrell to third, and Terrell scored the tying run on a sacrifice fly by Jim Holt.

In other AL games, Milwaukee routed Cleveland 15-3, New York edged Detroit 6-4, Chicago downed Kansas City 11-3, Baltimore topped Boston 10-7 and Oakland defeated California 9-4.

Brewers 15, Indians 3

Reserve first baseman Mike Hegan drove in five runs with a pair of homers to lead the Brewers rout of the Indians.

Yankees 6, Tigers 4

The Yankees rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to snap a seven-game losing streak. Run-scoring singles by Bobby Murcer and Otto Velez highlighted the rally against reliever John Hiller.

White Sox 11, Royals 3

Bill Melton, hitting a homer for the third consecutive game, drove in four runs to help Jim Kaat to his ninth win.

Orioles 10, Red Sox 7

Bobby Grich drove in three runs with a triple and a homer to spark the Orioles to their third straight victory over the AL East Division-leading Red Sox.

Los Angeles beat Cincinnati 3-2, San Francisco routed San Diego 9-2, Chicago edged St. Louis 3-2, Houston nipped Atlanta 4-3 in 10 innings, Montreal beat Pittsburgh 2-1 then lost 3-2 and Philadelphia topped New York 6-2 after losing the opener 5-3 in National League action.

Astros 4, Braves 3

Houston's Cesar Cedeno belted a three-run home run and then doubled in the winning run in the 10th inning to beat the Braves.

Dodgers 3, Reds 2

Cincinnati, which has lost eight of nine to Los Angeles, blew a chance to gain on the Dodgers. The Reds took a 2-1 lead into the ninth, but the Dodgers rallied for two runs on doubles by Steve Garvey and Willie Crawford and Bill Russell's single to pull out the game.

Cubs 3, Cards 2

Steve Stone and reliever Oscar Zamora combined on a seven-hitter to pace Chicago past St. Louis.

Expos 2-2, Pirates 1-3

Steve Rogers pitched a seven-hitter to give Montreal the victory over Pittsburgh in the first game and snap the Pirates 14-game home winning streak. But in the second game, the Pirates rallied in the eighth on Richie Zisks run-scoring double and Bob Robertson's sacrifice fly to gain a split.

Mets 5-2, Phils 3-6

Jon Matlack scattered 10 hits and struck out 10 and Cleon Jones drove in four runs to give New York the first game. But in the second game, Wayne Twitchell, injured most of the season, pitched a five-hitter for his first complete game this year to give Philadelphia the split.

Holland Rated Sentimental Choice In World Cup Play

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Twenty-three days ago the only thing the average fan knew about Holland's national soccer team was that a glorified footballer called Johan Cruyff played for it.

Today, 36 games after the World Soccer Cup kicked off June 13, the orange-shirted flying Dutchmen are household favorites and Cruyff rivals Pele himself.

Sunday will confirm or deny Holland's claim to being the greatest football team in the world when it meets West Germany in the final in Munich.

Both teams go to the game with top-class tournament records.

Holland won 11 points out of a possible 12, scored 14 goals and gave up only one — and that an "own goal" by a Dutchman.

West Germany won 10 points out of 12, scored 11 goals and allowed three.

The two sides were logical finalists in a tournament devised to emphasize attacking football and the value of goals and to penalize negative, defensive play.

The sentimental favorite is Holland.

It came virtually from nowhere. It has played the most consistently thrilling football of the competition. It has in Cruyff, its captain, possibly the most exciting player in the world, a personality-plus leader who is seen to lead on the field and off, a casual, elegant man who speaks five languages and puffs 20 cigarettes a day.

They have never before been in the final of the football championship.

Reggie, Carew Top Million Vote Mark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Outfielder Reggie Jackson of the Oakland As and second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins are the exclusive members of the Million Club in the American League as balloting enters its final days to select the All-Star team.

Jackson is far and away the leading vote getter in the American League with 1,524,790 of the 3,121,372 votes cast, according to the latest figures released today by the Baseball Commissioner. Carew, the leagues leading batter, is the only other player with more than a million votes, totaling 1,187,760.

The balloting ends on Sunday to determine all starting positions, except for pitcher, for the All-Star game in Pittsburgh Tuesday night, July 23.

Bostons Carlton Fisk, who underwent surgery for torn knee ligaments a few days ago, continues to lead the catchers with 718,129 votes. Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees, with 487,054 votes, has edged past Bill Freehan of the Detroit Tigers, with 455,225, for second place.

Munson seems a certainty to gain the starting place since Fisk wont be available and Freehan has stated hed rather not play inasmuch as hes been used at first base recently.

Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox, Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and Bert Campaneris of Oakland are the leaders at the other infield positions. Allen, a first baseman, has 697,851 votes, Robinson has 684,334 at third base and Campaneris has 986,512 at shortstop.

Trailing Jackson for the starting outfield berths are Bobby Murcer of the Yankees with 614,923, Al Kaline of Detroit with 562,187 and Frank Robinson of the California Angels with 554,531. Kaline, used solely as a designated hitter all season, is another Tiger who has suggested that it wouldnt be fair if he won a starting position.

Wilson Does It All In Italian Baseball Victory

PACIFICA — Catcher Ron Wilson did it all here yesterday for the Italian Athletic Club.

Wilson drove in five runs with a home run, a triple and two singles to lead the Italians to a 7-3 victory over San Mateo in the consolation championship game of the Terra Nova July 4th baseball tournament.

Mark Ruggles went all the way for the Italian Club to pick up the victory. He allowed just five hits, struck out seven and walked two. All three runs against him were unearned.

Millbrae won the tourney title with a 9-4 victory over Lous 66.

Simpson Is Rushing Leader For 2 Years

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — O. J. Simpson, who smashed Jim Brown's yardage record in the last game of the 1973 National Football League season and broke the 2,000-yard barrier, also led all NFL rushers in 1972 with 1,251 yards.

Simpson carried the ball 292 times for the Buffalo Bills.

Stansbury Advances In San Jose Tennis

SAN JOSE — Marin went 1-3 yesterday in the California State Junior Tennis Championships at the San Jose Swim and Racquet Club.

There were two casualties in Boys' 18.

In Girls' 18, Sue Beatty of Tiburon was eliminated, 6-3, 6-4, by third-seeded Barbara Jordan of King of Prussia, Pa.

Meanwhile, Susan Mehmadbasich of El Cerrito advanced to the quarter-finals of the Girls' 18 by downing Chris Penn 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In another match, top-rated Rocky Maguire of Woodside, still shaking off a bad cold, also made it into the quarter-finals with a 7-5, 6-3 win over Renard Johnson in Boys' 18 play.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Striper Limits And Fun For All

Here are the things I like to report! Walt Toews of Woodacre caught his first ever limit of fish last week in San Pablo Bay. I happened to be at his house when he arrived home with his three bass, all about 15 pounders.

All through his married life, his wife Doris always said as he was leaving for that big fish, "I'll have the spaghetti cooked because you just can't catch a fish." Well, this day he had 'em; he was the hero of the household. He was really excited and still is! His only complaint was that his arms were tired. I guess so!

VIC PETRESHENE, baseball coach at College of Marin, also came in this week with a nice limit. His three fish weighed 40 pounds.

I went fishing, too. The old "Lord of the Sea" himself piloted me around the piers and the pilings of the Richmond Bridge. Keith Fraser, the "Lord" who owns Loch Lomond Live Bait and Tackle shop, had said, "If you don't limit, you can take the bait shop." After an hour or so and no fish, Keith started asking me what I intended to do with the shop. I told him I'd just give the stuff away, keep track of the total value, and send him the final statement.

But then I got a fish, then a second. For awhile, I figured I'd at least own a third of the fish factory, but finally that last fish came along. Mike Imes was along too, and he limited before I got a touch.

None of my fish qualified for the striper derby (the biggest was 17½ pounds) but Mike, who didn't enter because he gives Keith advice and a helping hand now and then, caught a 21½ pounder. I figured if he gave me that fish for one of my smaller ones, I could make the derby list. No dice. They wouldn't give me a lead dime. And now the story's around that I tried to buy Mike's fish so I'd have an entry. Don't you believe it.

TOM MILLER, assistant bait shop worker and an enterprising high schooler, wanted to use a light spinning rod plugging around the different rips. I saw him lose three, land a big one, then I saw his rod bust in little pieces on the next fish. It was funny, and the look on his face told the whole story.

Doesn't it all sound good? You'd better get out there, even though the wind has been a pain. Most of us are getting wet from the rough water and the winds — even in the early morning. Dress warmly.

A FEW SHORT notes: The archery deer early season for the 25,000 to 30,000 bow hunters opens tomorrow. This includes Marin County. I've been seeing lots of bucks. They are in top shape and have good antler growth this year with the excellent forage available to them.

Don't trespass because it's illegal. Get written permission from landowners. Forked horns or better are the legal game. Shooting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. You need a hunting license and deer tags. Archers bagged 351 deer in California last year by tag count.

Dove season will probably open Sept. 1 which is a Sunday. The dove population index was up 29 per cent from that of last year on the basis of results of the annual call-count survey of breeding doves throughout the state.

On July 1, the season opened for brush, cottontail and pigmy rabbits statewise except in the southern California desert areas. The limit is five per day in combination. A hunting license is required.

July 16 is the deadline for filing your application for the special antelope hunt permits. The applications are at the licensed agent sporting good stores.

THE SALMON FISHERMEN at Bodega and Tomales Bay are looking forward to the run of big fish which usually shows just off the mouth of Tomales each year in early July. Salmon weighing 20 to 30 pounds are not uncommon there.

Trout plants in the lakes of Marin County will be curtailed until September. Surface temperatures of the lakes are too high for the successful planting of catchables.

Digest Books, Inc. of 540 Frontage Road, Northfield, Ill., has come out with a 288-page book about camping. All phases of camping with tips on how to make your camptime an exciting, rewarding experince. Lots of pictures and the price is right at $5.95. Check your sports store or your local book shop.

Marcano Favored Over Boxing Foe

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former junior-lightweight champion Alfredo Marcano of Venezuela has been established as an early 8-5 favorite to defeat Bobby Chacon of Sylmar, Calif., for the vacant World Boxing Council featherweight title.

NFL Strike Picks Up; Vets March

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Action in the National Football League player strike got much heavier yesterday as veterans attempted to march to the San Diego Chargers' rookie camp.

The march failed, but a meeting was permitted later.

Three players' representatives had been given permission to go to the camp to speak with rookies about player demands. When the time came to go to the closed meeting, about 10 veterans walked through the entrance to the United States International University rookie camp site.

They walked about 100 yards before being stopped by security guards, who also called police. The players spoke with Chargers' attorney Stacey Sullivan for several minutes and then disbanded at the urging of their executive director, Ed Garvey.

While the representatives met with the rookies, veteran Chargers tight end Pettis Norman said the stopping illustrated what the strike was about.

"The same prejudice and restraining inflicted on us is what they will be subjected to," he said.

He said the rookies were being prevented from the meeting with the veterans by use of previously unscheduled work sessions.

"Yesterday they showed them the Chargers highlights of 1973," he said. "You have a better chance to start with the Chargers if you don't mention the 1973 season."

After the closed meeting, the Chargers' management allowed the newcomers to walk to the campus entrance to talk informally with veteran players.

The rookies and veterans broke into groups for conversation and mingling, but there was no indication of concerted action or decisions being made. Afterwards, the rookies went to the drill field.

Chargers' owner Gene Klein, before the entrance meeting, accused the strikers of scare tactics.

HAVING A FIT — San Diego Chargers' equipment manager Sid Brooks yesterday tried a helmet on free agent Ken Allen (left). The National Football League team opened camp in San Diego despite the NFL Players Association strike. (UPI Telephoto)

"The rookies are free to talk," he said. "But they must obey the rules of the camp. We have curfews, but they are ordinary rules."

Klein emphasized the NFL clubs would play the 1974 season as scheduled, especially with the World Football League offering competition.

"We're not going to shut down the store and let them have all the business," he said. "There's no way in the world we're not going to play the season as scheduled with the best players we can."

Asked about a diluted product, Klein pointed out the Chargers have a new coaching staff, are coming off a horrible season and have a new system.

"We might have a reverse situation where the rookies will be the veterans and the veterans the rookies," he said.

He said he felt a little ambivalent because if everyone had to go with their rookies, "We'd have a hell of a shot at the Super Bowl."

The strike, which began Monday, concerned 63 demands made by the players association. The old contract expired Jan. 31, and the players were seeking, among other things, the ability to deal with whatever team they want rather than being bound to any one team.

Dietz Crashes, Rival Drea Wins Regatta

HENLEY, England (UPI) — New Yorker Jim Dietz had steering trouble at the Royal Henley Regatta today and crashed ignominously out of the blue ribbon of international rowing.

Irishman Sean Drea, the title holder now based in Philadelphia and Dietz' arch-rival, stroked smoothly to a five-length win in Henley's Diamond Sculls.

Drea had Dietz' measure by the halfway stage. Dietz had been having steering problems but stayed in touch until about the halfway point. Then Drea turned on the power and stroked easily on to win going ahead in 8:39 by five lengths.

Harvard University's Kirkland House crew rowed to a narrow win today over a Cambridge crew at the Henley Royal Regatta, but another U.S. entry bowed out.

Harvard, title holder in the Ladies' Plate competition for eights, stroked to a victory by one-third of a length over Selwyn College, Cambridge, in 7:40.

But in the second round of the Silver Goblets race for double sculls, the Santa Clara, Calif., pair of G. Albers and J. Machado were disqualified in their race against Oxford's P.G.P. Stoddart and P.J. Marsden.

Ken Dwan, Britain's hope in the Diamond Sculls, beat Hans Rickstuhl of Switzerland in the second round on the eve of his 26th birthday. The race was not rowed out.
